Dayan Gets Criticism Of Israeli

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Levi Eshkol criticized Defense Minister Moshe Dayan Friday and gave most of the credit for Israel's victory in the Arab war to Maj. Gen Yitzhak Rabin, chief of staff.

Shortly before the war broke out June 5, Eshkol reluctantly bowed to pressure and made Dayan, member of an opposition party, defense minister. Dayan had led Israel to victory in the 1956 war with Egypt.

Eshkol had held the Defense Ministry portfolio as well as the prime minister's post, and he indicated this situation may be restored.

"The separation of the defense portfolio from the premiership made no difference in the war's outcome," he said in an interview with the newspaper Yediot Aharonot. "But they should be held by the same man in the future.

"Dayan's entry into the Cabinet improved morale, but the credit for the victory goes to the chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Yitzhak Rabin, and to the government. The self-praise of one man Dayan is not honorable. If it continues, then we will have to react."

Eshkol was asked why Israel had agreed to a U.S. request to withhold action after Egypt closed the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping late in May. Israel's port of Elath is on the gulf and the closing led directly to the war.

"I told everyone that if President Johnson asks us to delay action we would have to provide him with more time, so that later on he would not be able to say: 'I told you to wait. I asked you to give me time to act. But because you did not listen to me you'll have to bear the consequences.' "

In the same interview Eshkol also made a peace gesture toward the Vatican in the dispute over Jerusalem, now entirely under Israel's flag. Jordan occupied the Old City until driven out in the war.

Red Chinese Maul Police In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — A crowd of 300 Chinese crossed the Communist Chinese border Saturday and attacked a Hong Kong police post in the border village of Sha Tau Kok, the Hong Kong government reported.

The government said three police constables were killed and several others wounded when the mob opened fire upon them.

Sha Tau Kok straddles the China-Hong Kong border, which runs along the village's main street.

The Hong Kong government reported 300 Chinese crossed the border about 11:00 a.m. and began the stoning. Police fired wooden projectiles and tear gas in an attempt to drive the crowd back.

Armed members of the crowd opened fire, the government said, and the three Hong Kong police constables were killed.

Tshombe Claimed Instigator

Congolese Outline Try At Overthrow

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Congo laid before the Security Council Friday details of an alleged three-phase plot which it said was hatched in Spain by ex-Premier Moise Tshombe and European aides to do away with Congolese President Joseph Mobutu.

In a two-part presentation The Congo also said latest information was that white mercenaries had fled the embattled city of Kisangani for Rhodesia in their two planes and another stolen from the Congolese National Airlines.

Congolese Ambassador Theodore Idzumbuir told the council his government had asked Rhodesian authorities to arrest the mercenaries and return the stolen plane.

He blamed Tshombe and his supporters for the current internal troubles in The Congo, including the landing of the white mercenaries in two planes on Wednesday. He also named Belgium, Spain, and Portugal as centers of pro-Tshombe activities.

The Congo representative asserted that the alleged Madrid plot had these three phases:

1. Economic sabotage, which he said had resulted in dynamiting of a key bridge and a power transmission line in Katanga.
2. Provocation of mutinies in the Congolese National Army.
3. Physical elimination of the chief of state, President Mobutu.

He specifically named a number of Belgian and French nationals as agents of Tshombe who had made trips from Portuguese Angola into the Congo either for purposes of sabotage or to work with Tshombe sympathizers in The Congo.

New Reports On Iguanas Are Noted

Wading deeper into the mystery surrounding Thursday's recovery of the dead body of a giant lizard described by biologists as an iguana, state wildlife and fisheries officials Friday reported that sightings of a similar looking animal had been rumored in the White's Ferry area of the sprawling lake.

Positioned near the West Monroe city limits, the White's Ferry area is nearly 50 miles from the spot where the dead body of the scaly, spiney, coned, animal was found Thursday. Wildlife research supervisor, Jim Davis, said, "if there were two of the animals in the area I doubt if the one found at Terrel's Landing near Farmerville Thursday

Whites Hit Fighting In Congo

Plane With Wounded Lands In Rhodesia City

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—A plane carrying wounded white men and Africans from the Congo landed Friday night at Kariba, Rhodesia, a Rhodesian government spokesman announced.

The plane presumably was under command of white mercenaries reported fleeing after having been involved in an eastern Congo rebellion against Congolese President Joseph Mobutu.

A Rhodesian government spokesman said injured passengers from the plane were receiving treatment at Kariba Hospital. Kariba is about 300 miles northwest of Salisbury, seat of the white minority Rhodesian government that broke away from Britain on Nov. 11, 1965.

Mercenaries aboard the plane were believed to have fled a bloody battle at Kisangani, formerly Stanleyville, in the Congo.

Earlier reports from Kinshasa, the Congo capital, had said a Congolese government DC3 aircraft had been hijacked at Kisangani by mercenaries who headed for Rhodesia.

The Rhodesian government spokesman said a number of airports in central Africa had been alerted to prepare for an emergency landing.

Kinshasa, formerly Leopoldville, was virtually closed to the outside world since reports of developing rebellion started last weekend. Most reports of Congo fighting seeped out to foreign capitals rather than direct from the scenes.

The Rhodesiwn government statement on the Kariba landing came about three hours after the reports from Kinshasa. Those reports mentioned only one plane.

Other reports said three planes in all were involved in evacuation of mercenaries and wounded from the eastern Congo, and these reports were relayed to the United Nations Security Council in New York by Congo Ambassador Theodore Idzumbuir.

The fate of the other two was not determined by late Friday night in Salisbury.

A distress signal that may have come from any one of the three and was relayed from Nairobi, Ndola and Lusaka said the plane needed landing facilities at Livingstone, Victoria Falls or Kariba.

Of the plane known to have landed, a government spokesman said: "On humanitarian grounds and in terms of recognized distress practice, flare paths were laid out and the plane landed safely at Kariba.

Nigerians Stage Fight With Rebels

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—Federal Nigerian troops invaded the secessionist eastern region and captured two of its northern border villages in fighting with rebel forces, Lagos Radio said Friday night.

"A great number of casualties" was reported in the fighting, according to another announcement, this one by the government radio in the self-styled rebellious Republic of Biafra.

The report from the Biafran capital of Enugu said Biafran soldiers had repulsed the invasion and forced the federal troops five miles back into federal territory.

In Washington, State Department officials said U.S. monitor reports on a broadcast from Radio Enugu in the eastern region said eastern forces had repulsed a four-pronged attack and had countered by taking a town five miles inside the northern region.

It was the first reported fighting by the federal government since the eastern region bolted from central rule five weeks ago.

Lagos Radio gave few details of the fighting.

The fighting began one day after British oil companies announced they had stopped pumping oil in the mineral-rich east because federal authorities, with a six-ship navy, had imposed a blockade on the eastern port of Bonny.

Lagos radio said federal military leader Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon ordered federal troops to invade the eastern region and capture secessionist eastern military leader Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu and his troops.

The federal radio said fighting began at dawn Friday when rebel troops opened fire at federal positions.

The radio said Gowon then ordered the invasion, asking the troops not to wage a war of attrition and not to molest foreigners. The Lagos radio urged civilians to remain calm and support their civil defense committees.

The crisis erupted as George Thomas, British minister of state for Commonwealth Affairs, flew to Lagos Friday for wide-ranging talks on Nigeria's problems, especially the question of oil in the eastern region.

The radio said federal forces had captured the border towns of Obudo and Obolo in the eastern region, proclaimed as the Republic of Biafra May 30 by its ruler Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu.

The report followed reports of thousands of federal troops massing on the border for an attack designed to bring the region back under federal rule.

Both students had also been listed on the fall semester honor roll. At that time Gates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Dr. James H. Perry, Dean of LSU's Junior Division, announced that the students are members of an elite group as only 15.7 per cent of LSU freshmen were listed as honor roll students.

Little Whooper Dies After Day

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Little Whooper, hatched only Thursday afternoon, and one of the few whooping cranes ever to break out of it's mother's egg in captivity, died Friday.

Director Frank Stark of the San Antonio Zoo announced the baby bird's death.

Stark said Rosie, the mother, sat on the nest from about 4:30 p.m. to 7:50 p.m., when she left the nest and zoo attendants who were keeping a round-the-clock watch, found the chick dead.

Stark said the body of the baby whooper was being sent to the U.S. Wildlife Refuge at Aransas Pass in an attempt to see why the rare chick died.

Louisiana Seeks Powers To Rout Industrial Labor, Employer Racketeering

DURING A LABOR - Management summit at Baton Rouge Henry J. Voorhies, retired general manager of Humble Oil and Refining Co. of Baton Rouge, and Billy Brown of Kaiser Aluminum, New Orleans, discuss a point with U. S. Rep. Edwin Willis prior to a meeting with Gov. John J. McKeithen Friday at Baton Rouge. (AP Wirephoto)

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A task force began work Friday on what probably will be legislation to empower the state to rout the racketeering in industrial labor and management.

Gov. John McKeithen mentioned that allegations of a serious nature had been made on both sides of the snarled labor-management situation here as he launched a special committee to detail a course of action.

He named Dean Cecil Morgan of the Tulane University Law School as chairman of the special committee, made up of attorneys, law school deans, a labor leader and an archbishop.

A special session of the legislature appeared in the making perhaps by Aug. 1, although neither Gov. McKeithen nor Dean Morgan was ready to talk about any specific date.

McKeithen said he was ready "to call the legislature into special session immediately" if the committee so advised.

He met with 150 picked leaders from over the state to deal with the labor-management situation in this area and around Lake Charles, generally worsening over a two-month period. About $250 million in industrial and other construction has been hamstrung in each of these areas, and about 15,000 men are out of work here.

The group of 150 agreed with McKeithen in a closed session that positive action was needed to head off a grave situation, and it selected the smaller committee to make specific recommendations to the governor under his guidlines.

Reports from inside the meeting gave hints of some hair-raising accusations made against each other by disputing labor unions, and by labor against management and management against labor. Details and names were reported mentioned.

McKeithen told newsmen he also had asked the National Labor Relations board to expedite its probe into various phases of the difficulties in this state.

He and Victor Bussie, president of the state AFL-CIO, stressed that Louisiana's problems have been building up over a period of years, rather than being restricted to recent differences.

Morgan, 69 - year - old former legislator and former oil company executive, scheduled meetings Monday and Friday for his special committee, which he said was split up into groups to investigate phases of the problem.

McKeithen said if after Monday's meeting the Morgan group saw it probably would recommend a special session of the legislature he would issue the call right away and allow the five-day notice time to start running.

The governor called the situation here a "sorry mess" that included shooting, and said a fact-finding agency was needed.

He said he asked those on various sides about reports he had received and "they said they weren't doing it, but they weren't under oath. I had no right to subpoena anybody."

McKeithen reportedly told the 150 leaders a commission with subpoena powers was needed so public hearings could be held, and the group agreed. Louisiana has a labor mediation board but it lacks subpoena power.

The governor earlier had talked of an extension of the code of ethics idea his administration has applied to government so it would cover labor and management in industry.

Serving on the 10-man special committee with Dean Morgan are Bussie; Archbishop Philip M. Hannan of the New Orleans Roman Catholic archdiocese; Dean Paul M. Hebert of the Louisiana State University law school here; former Dist. Judge Carlos Spaht and attorney Victor Sachse, both of Baton Rouge; Thomas J. Meunier and Paul Barker, both New Orleans attorneys who handle labor cases; Clayton Nairne, president of New Orleans Public Service Inc., and Oliver Stockwell, Lake Charles attorney.

Accurate Red Gunners Zero In On Marine Post

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese gunners zeroed in with stunning accuracy Friday, blasting a Marine command post with a single round that killed nine leathernecks and wounded 21 others.

The Communists poured a rain of artillery fire against a string of Marine outposts along the Demilitarized Zone, and launched simultaneous probing ground attacks.

MARINE DEAD

American spokesmen said 14 Marines were killed and 21 wounded in the artillery attack, all but five casualties from the single deadly shell. Most of the casualties were at Con Thien stronghold where the command post was hit.

The Leathernecks brought in tanks to blast one of the ground probes, killing 16 North Vietnamese.

Friday's barrage from the DMZ came hard on the heels of the arrival of U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara earlier in the day.

The Communists, who usually hoard their ammunition, staged a massive display of firepower as the Secretary flew to Vietnam. They unleashed barrages of more than 900 rounds at Con Thien and two nearby outposts Thursday, and fired a flurry of ground-to-air missiles at U.S. jets trying to knock out their artillery positions in the DMZ.

One of the jets was knocked down by a missile and its pilot spent the night in a bomb crater before being rescued.

American planes continued to hunt over the South China Sea for six missing airmen, including the first U.S. general to be listed as a casualty in Vietnam.

Meanwhile, U.S. Marines holding back invasion thrusts from elements of five North Vietnamese divisions killed 150 Communists in a fierce lopsided fight. Not a single Marine casualty was reported.

But the Communists unleashed one of the most intense artillery and mortar barrages of the war elsewhere on the border.

Big Decision To Be Traced

In the high places of the nation, a decision made reaches to the furthermost individual, plucking him from his obscurity and placing him in an assigned role in the greater scheme of things.

A president elects to extend, or limit, American involvement in Vietnam and ultimately it means one boy goes somewhere, or does not.

This link is graphically illustrated in two stories you'll find in Sunday's Monroe Morning World. One gives the step - by - step of America's growing involvement there, while the other shows what happened to two young men who were caught up in that involvement, and how their deaths were the final ripple of a decision made on high.

Partly Cloudy Skies Expected

Partly cloudy skies through Sunday with a possibility of scattered daytime thundershowers form the forecast for Northeast Louisiana today. There will be no important temperature changes. High today is expected to be between 88 and 94 with the low tonight expected to be between 68 and 74. Winds will be mostly variable at 5 to 15 m.p.h.

The Louisiana Delta agricultural forecast calls for drying conditions good daytime becoming fair to poor at night. Near 50 per cent sunshine is expected for Saturday with 60 per cent Sunday. Probability of rain is 20 per cent during the daytime with rainfall amounts one quarter inch or less.

In the Twin Cities Friday, FFA Station at Selman Field recorded a high of 80 around 5 p.m. and a low of 69 around 2 a.m.

Soviets Fail In Limiting Arabian Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials reported Friday that the Russians do not appear interested now in an agreement to limit arms shipments to the Middle East.

The officials, who are familiar with the Glassboro, N.J., summit talks between President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and with intelligence reports on Soviet weapons shipments, said the Russians have shown a marked indifference to the U.S. bid for a Middle East arms limitation.

The Kremlin was said to have inaugurated a sizable emergency airlift of arms to the Arabs immediately after the cease-fire ending last month's six-day war and then followed through with shipments by sea.

Around one-fourth of the planes and half of the tanks and other military vehicles lost by Arab forces in the war with Israel have been replaced by the Soviet shipments, the U.S. officials said.

The U.S. authorities said that a specific pact restricting military items in the Middle East would be difficult because of the number of outside suppliers and the complicated arms rivalries in the area.

On other items taken up at Glassboro, and at the United Nations and elsewhere, the Washington authorities were somewhat more optimistic

They said Kosygin had not objected to U.S.-Soviet talks on curbing missiles and antiballistic missiles, though no date was set.

Gurvich, John The Baptist Canler

Garrison Subpoenas Grand Jury Witnesses

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A prisoner and a onetime top investigator in the Kennedy assassination plot probe got orders Thursday to answer questions by the Orleans Parish grand jury.

Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison subpoenaed William Gurvich, a private detective who quit the district attorney's staff recently, and John (The Baptist) Canler, convicted of burglary, to appear before the grand jury next Wednesday.

Gurvich, who traveled the nation seeking clues in the probe, charged two weeks ago there is no basis for Garrison's investigation. He testified voluntarily before the grand jury last Wednesday.

"This time we want the grand jury to hear him out on a put up or shut up basis to draw out the evidence, if he has any," said Asst. Dist. Atty. Richard V. Burnes.

Burnes said the private detective was being subpoenaed rather than asked to appear voluntarily "to insure his appearance. Without a subpoena there's no guarantee that he would be available."

Canler, who is in prison awaiting court action on a burglary conviction, appeared recently on a special television program by the National Broadcasting Co. he said he was asked by a member of the district attorney's staff to break into the French Quarter home of Clay L. Shaw, who has been charged with conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

"He's just another person who professes to have knowledge of the case," Burnes said of Canler. "He has never testified under oath to the charges he made over nationwide television. We want to give him that chance."

Gurvich announced his doubts about the Garrison investigation after visiting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., in New York City recently.

Wounded Marine Finds Fast Change Of Scenery

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Reality seemed strange and undesirable to Marine Cpl. Domingo Trevino last Sunday.

He was surrounded by jungle foliage, blood flowed from wounds in his back and left leg. His hands were tied behind his back by members of the North Vietnamese unit that had badly mauled Trevino's Bravo Company of the 9th Marines.

Little did he realize then that in five days he would be reunited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Trevino Sr. of San Marcos in his native Texas.

The 20-year-old San Marcos native told his story Friday after arriving at the U.S. Naval Hospital in Corpus Christi. He said Bravo Company started out about 8 a.m. Sunday to sweep an area near Con Thien, about two miles below the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

Trevino was a radio operator at a forward command post which normally is protected by other units. "We started drawing heavy sniper fire and direct fire. We were pinned down in an open area along a trail," he said.

"The North Vietnamese were in the jungle all around us dug in. We fired back, but every few minutes someone in the unit got hit. We were spread out along the trail and never got a chance to dig in. There was only brush for protection," he added.

Trevino's first wound came about three hours after the firing started. A bullet, probably fired by a sniper in a tree, crashed into his leg. He said the shooting soon slowed down and he could hear nothing except scattered machine gun fire.

"I thought they had killed everybody," he said.

The loss of blood and heat from the midday sun caused Trevino to lose consciousness. When he awoke, he turned and saw several North Vietnamese firing a machine gun nearby. Instead of keeping quiet, the veteran of 20 months of Vietnamese fighting lifted his M16 rifle and fired an entire magazine — 17 bullets — at the enemy.

He was unable to reload and one of the numerous rounds fired at him struck him just below the right shoulder. His flak jacket slowed the bullet and probably saved his life. About a half a dozen North Vietnamese swarmed over him, tying his hands behind his back and dragging him off into the jungle.

"I don't know how far they dragged me," Trevino said as he opened his blue hospital shirt to show rope burns on his arms and scratches and bruises.

"I passed out several times as they were dragging me off," he said. He said the captors were all young and all wore "greens about like ours."

Trevino said his captors finally dropped him by a large tree and disappeared into the jungle. He lay there alone for about two hours, passing out and then regaining his senses.

He finally awoke to hear a tank moving through the jungle. He yelled for help and several U.S. infantrymen, walking with the tank, spotted him.

"They just looked and passed on by because they were at the point, but the guys behind them came and picked me up," he said.

Because Trevino had his hands tied, his rescuers apparently thought he had been tied and then shot. At least two news reports of the battle told of how he had been tied to a tree, shot and left for dead.

Acrophobic Puppy Stuck On Housetop

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — So you rush home, and what do you find on the roof?

A 140-pound St. Bernard puppy with acute acrophobia.

It happened Friday to Mrs. Holman Head. The house, which is still under construction, has a window through which neighborhood dogs would crawl onto the roof.

Bridget, the Heads' huge puppy, decided she could do that, too. So she did.

Then it struck — acrophobia, fear of heights — and Bridget was reduced to quivering inaction.

Mrs. Head said she was at the beauty shop when her son telephoned to tell her of Bridget's predicament.

She hurried home and found the boy, Holman Jr., trying to coax the pup down. Bridget was unconvinced.

Finally, Mrs. Head had to crawl out on the roof herself and lure the trembling St. Bernard back to safety.

Police Jail Slim Man As Sniper

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A sallow, slender bachelor who collected guns as a hobby was charged with murder Friday for the sniper slaying of a young couple and the wounding of two women.

Arthur John Towell, 35, described by police as an air force veteran with a history of mental instability, faces two counts of first-degree murder and two of attempted murder.

He was taken before Magistrate James Bartmen, who set July 14 for entering a plea.

Police said Towell surrendered meekly after a wild and apparently senseless shooting spree Thursday night from upstairs windows of his parents' home in a quiet Vancouver residential neighborhood.

Killed in the brief fusillade of a dozen or more shots were David D. A. Webster, 31, an assistant professor of education at the nearby University of British Columbia and his wife, Marlene, 30. Their four children, aged 6 months to 10 years, were orphaned.

Wounded and hospitalized in fair condition were Patti Barrass, 19, a recent bride, and Hilda Baxter, 56, of Powell River, B.C., who was babysitting with her five grandchildren.

The Websters were cut down just before dusk in the back yard of their home next door to the Towell residence. Mrs. Baxter was directly across the street in the home of her son-in-law, F. R. Adams. Mrs. Barrass was walking along a sidewalk with a friend.

Towell, about 5 feet 10 and 140 pounds, sent his mother running outside when police surrounded the house, crying "Don't shoot! Don't shoot! My son will surrender!"

He came out with his hands up and offered no resistance.

Inside, officers found an arsenal of 13 guns, several hundred rounds of handmade ammunition, army ammunition pouches, a bayonet and two army knives. The weapons included three pistols, a shotgun, an army automatic rifle and eight other rifles.

Police Sgt. William Porteous said there was no motive for the shootings.

"The man just went berserk," he said.

Plot Against Congo Begins To Unravel

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A planeload of wounded whites and Africans from the remote and confused battlegrounds of the Congo landed Friday night in Rhodesia with the first tangible evidence to emerge from the fighting.

The Congolese government said those commanding the plane were mercenaries fleeing from the embattled area of Kisangani, formerly Stanleyville.

Other sources said three evacuation planes in all were involved — two the mercenaries used to fly into battle and one hijacked from the Congo government to join the withdrawal. The two other planes remained unreported.

The first evacuation plane, in distress and searching for a landing spot while running out of gas, set down at Kariba, a town northwest of Salisbury on the Rhodesian-Zambian border.

The Rhodesian government announced the wounded were treated in the Kariba hospital and the plane was impounded.

A far-flung, fantastic plot to unseat Congo President Joseph D. Mobutu apparently had not yet run its course, however, despite the reported departure of some white mercenary leaders from the eastern Congo.

Details of the new Congo adventure story began to emerge in widely separated places just a week after the yarn began to spin with the airborne kidnaping of Congo ex-Premier Moise Tshombe over the Mediterranean a week ago Friday night.

Most details came from Rhodesia in reports of the plane landing; Algiers, where the Algerian government told of how Tshombe was detoured into captivity by a gunman in his charter plane; and at the United Nations, where the Congo ambassador told of a three-ply plot in behalf of Tshombe against Mobutu.

Tshombe has been a center of intrigue at home and in exile since he pulled his mineral-rich Katanga Province out of the newly independent Congo in 1960, when the Belgians finally were supposed to have quit the vast mid-African area.

Tshombe had been president of Katanga. In one of his later comebacks he became premier of the entire Congo, but fell out with his colleagues and last March was convicted in absentia of treason and sentenced to death.

The Tshombe plane a week ago was diverted at gunpoint to Algeirs, and Tshombe has been held incommunicado there ever since. Mobutu's Congolese government immediately asked that Tshombe be extradited so he could be executed. He had been living in exile for 19 months, mostly in Madrid.

A few days after Tshombe's kidnaping, the Congo government said white mercenaries were back, attacking on Wednesday to gain a foothold in Bukavu and part of Kisangani.

Reports from the area said white European mercenaries were aided by Katangan soldiers who were backers of Tshombe. Tshombe, 49, has strong supporters in Katanga Province.

The Congo told the U.N. Security Council in New York on Friday that Tshombe and his European aides plotted in Spain to assassinate Mobutu.

Congolese Ambassador Theodore Idzumbuir told the council that the white mercenaries had fled Kisangani for Rhodesia in their two planes and another aircraft stolen from Air Congo. He said his government had asked Rhodesia to arrest the mercenaries and return the plane.

In the past, some white mercenary leaders who fought in the Congo for Tshombe and others have come from Rhodesia.

There have been virtually no reports from the Congolese capital, Kinshasa, since the rebellion was reported. Most reports of Congo fighting have come from other foreign capitals.

The Belgian radio in Brussels reported the flight out of Kisangania of a plane carrying the mercenaries. It said there was heavy fighting between central Congolese government troops and white mercenaries and Katanga soldiers rebelling against the government. It reported fighting in Kindu in the western part of Kivu Province and in western Kasai Province.

Ambassador Idzumbuir told the Security Council an elaborate three-stage plot was hatched by Tshombe to sabotage the Congo's economy, provoke mutinies in the Congolese national army and to kill Mobutu.

The Congo sought direct help from the United States and U.N. backing to defeat forces led by mercenaries.

The council adjourned until Monday amid efforts to draft a formal appeal to all countries to ban recruitment of mercenaries for use against the Congolese government.

Alabamians Help Negro To Celebrate

GREENVILLE, Ala. (AP) — They had a barbecue and party down at Roman C. Payne's plantation near here Friday to celebrate his birthday.

The "old professor" and his friends had good reason to celebrate the occasion. It was his 100th birthday.

White friends of the retired Negro educator got together and arranged for a huge cake which they helped him eat since it was enough for 220 persons. The Paynes meantime cooked a cow, hog and goat for the festivities.

Mrs. Guy McGough, who helped with the arrangements, said all but one of Payne's 10 children were on hand for the party.

Payne, a native of Lowndes County, graduated from Selma University for Negroes, Mrs. McGough said. "Then he taught school for years and years and then some years," she added.

He then went into farming and at one time his family owned a large plantation near Spring Creek. He later sold some of the land but retained the home place.

Mrs. McGough said Payne and his wife Janie still attend church every Sunday. The Paynes have been married for 70 years.

West Germany Set To Reduce Army

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger announced plans Friday to cut West Germany's 461,000-man army to enable his government to balance its budgets for the next four years.

The move will put West Germany even further away from meeting its commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, for an army of 500,000 men. West Germany has never met this pledge.

Kiesinger did not specify how many men would be cut but reliable estimates put the figure at 40,000 to 60,000.

Th reduction will cut further into the strength of Western armies in Europe. The United States announced in May that it would withdraw 35,000 of its 225,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen in this country. Britain has said it will pull out 5,000 of its 55,000-man Rhne army.

Britain and the United States made these decisions because West Germany said it was no longer able to offset the foreign exchange costs of these troops by arms purchases.

In Washington, Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer, said the United States would oppose any troop cutback by West Germany without consultation among the NATO allies.

Kiesinger announced also that there would be cuts in arms and equipment purchases for the West German army, and reductions in civil defense expenditures.

He said the measures are part of a financial and economic plan designed to balance budgets for the next four years and to get West Germany's stagnant economy going again.

Kiesinger's Cabinet reached the decisions after three days of meetings, which ended with a marathon 15-hour session Thursday night.

The measures include a new business turnover tax which will be pegged at 10.5 per cent beginning next year and a 3 per cent rise in income tax for those earning more than $4,000 a year.

The cuts in the defense budget, amounting to $500 million in 1968, were the largest in the $20-billion budget for the year.

A total of $4.7 billion will be spent on defense in 1969 and the amount will rise to $5 billion in 1971.

Asked whether the reduction in the army strength was part of the government's policy to reduce tensions between East and West, Kiesinger said this was not a consideration.

"While we welcome any reduction in tensions, we cannot underestimate the dangers that face us," he said, adding that there has been no reduction in Communist forces in recent years.

Kiesinger originally was scheduled to be in Washington Friday for talks with President Johnson but has postponed the trip, which probably will come this fall.

The chancellor said that both the Christian Democrats and the Socialist partners in his coalition government agreed to the budget measures.

LBJ Signs New Order For Captains

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, in an action prompted by military developments in Vietnam, signed an executive order Friday that will permit quicker promotions for Marine Corps first lieutenants.

Under existing law, a first lieutenant in the Corps must hold that rank for two years before he can be promoted to captain. However, the Marines need more captains in Vietnam than this system would allow.

To meet the problem, Johnson ordered a suspension of the two-year proviso and empowered the Secretary of the Navy to permit promotions to captain after a single year of service as a first lieutenant.

Johnson, spending an extended holiday at his LBJ ranch north of here, worked in his home office Friday on papers flown there during the night aboard a courier plane from Washington.

He also discussed developments in the Congo and on other foreign fronts in telephone conferences with Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg at the United Nations and Walt W. Rostow, Johnson's national security affairs assistant at the White House.

Press secretary George Christian had no comment on the Congo, saying simply, "The President of course is watching the situation there and receiving regular reports."

New Reports On Iguanas Are Noted

was the same animal creating the rumors of sightings in the White's Ferry area over the past few years."

"I don't doubt that there is something out there, but I can't pin it down," the wildlife specialist said.

"The reports we have had for some three years now have been of a small, black, reptile looking thing, which has been described as dfinitely not looking like a small alligator," he said.

"Although we've never talked to anyone who has actually spotted the animal, the supposed sightings are apparently legitimate," Davis said.

Davis said that an investigation of Thursday's recovery of the Iguana carcas revealed that the animal had definitely been seen alive once, and "that was about a week or 10 days ago."

"Yet," he said, "these animals are extremely nervous and stay away from populated areas, but near water."

Iguanas are described as an extremely strong reptile possessing unusual strength who often perch in trees and maintain an almost complete vegetarian diet.

Davis added what seemed to be a damper on the idea that one, two or more Iguanas are living in the Lake.

For "these animals," he said, require a relative constant high temperature of about 60 degrees or warmer."

Davis had said earlier that the animal recovered Thursday was "about half grown" being "three to five years old."

Plans Noted For Baseball Facilities

JONESBORO (Special) — Plans to construct two baseball fields on school board property in Jonesboro were announced Friday by the Jackson Parish School Board.

Officials said the fully lit baseball playing spots will be constructed in cooperation with the town of Jonesboro and the town's Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The fields will be located at Jackson High School and Southside Elementary School.

The school board will advertise for bids on furniture and equipment for Weston High School, Chatham High School and Jonesboro - Hodge High school auditorium.

The board has accepted a bid for construction of an industrial arts shop at the Jasper Henderson High School, for the amount of $12,974. Funds were made available through the ESEA program.

The name of the Jonesboro Elementary School was changed to the W. C. Rundell Elementary School, in memory of the late principal who served from 1935-1963.

The school board, in accordance of Act 57 of the fiscal session, increased the per diem of school board members from $30 to $40 per meeting.

The Eros High School, grades 9-12, were consolidated with Chatham High School.

In other business, the school board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Caroldene Clemmons, music teacher at Eros and Chatham High Schools, and approved Jimmy Davis as bus operator on the route previously operated by R. L. Hall.

The U.S. Senate has the sole power to try impreachments.

Brandishes Pistol With Silencer

Sole Passenger Diverts Airplane With Tshombe

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — The airborne kidnaping of Congo ex-Premier Moise Tshombe was carried out at the command of a single passenger who pulled a pistol with a silencer and ordered the pilots of Tshombe's charter plane to land at Algiers, the Algerian Information Ministry said Friday night.

A ministry communique on the hijacking over the Mediterranean last Friday also listed last names of other occupants of the plane.

Algeria has been holding Tshombe since the plane landed. The Congo government has asked Algeria to extradite Tshombe so it can execute him for treason and plotting to overthrow President Joseph Mobutu.

Tshombe, 49, has been in exile for 19 months, living mostly in Madrid, since Mobutu took power in a bloodless coup.

Tshombe was sentenced to death in absentia by a Congolese tribunal last March after it found him guilty of treason and subversion. Most of the charges arose from the secession of his copper-rich Katanga Province from the rest of the Congo in 1960. In 1963 a U. N. force put down the secession and Tshombe went into exile.

The Algerian Information Ministry said that when the twin-engine plane was over international waters, "one of the passengers armed with an automatic pistol and silencer ordered the other passengers not to move and the pilots to head for Algiers."

It added that one passenger tried to get out of his seat but was shot at. The plane was then detoured to an Algerian military airport. The ministry did not say whether the passenger was wounded.

vestigation is continuing "in efforts to determine the reasons and the accomplices of the mutiny."

The communique said the in-

The communique said passengers aboard the plane included a man named Bodenan, a Frenchman believed in Paris to be Francis Bodenan, 43, an ex-convict known for a taste for dangerous intrigue. He is rumored to have been a key man in the June 30 detour of the plane to Algeria from what was planned as a flight between two Mediterranean islands of the Spanish Balearic group.

The other passengers were listed as Tshombe; Humbersin, Belgian; Mr. and Mrs. Sigal, Belgian, and two Spanish police inspectors since turned over to consular officials in Algiers—Luis Meana and Santiago Gonzales.

Also aboard were the British pilot and copilot.

Shoplifting Charged To 3 Juveniles

Monroe police Friday arrested three juveniles at Gibson's Discount Center on charges of shoplifting.

Investigating officers said the boys were arrested with about 50 cents in fishing gear on them.

In other action officers charged Bobbie Carter, 25, of 1110 Pine St. with carrying a concealed weapon. Officers said Miss Carter had a 12 inch long knife in her purse when arrested.

In West Monroe police placed driving while intoxicated and reckless driving charges against Nathan D. Morris, 24, 1408 Montgomery Ave., Bastrop.

Officers said Morris was spotted driving the wrong way on a one - way street.

Monroe police late Friday were still investigating the theft of about $338.00 from the Continental Trailways Bus Company here.

Officers said V. J. Colligan, an employe at the company, reported the theft early Friday. Colligan, a cashier at the company, said he stepped away from the company's main counter cash register to get a cup of coffee in a restaurant inside the building. Upon his return Colligan said the money and two men who were standing near the counter when he stepped out were gone.

Police said they were holding two suspects in connection with the incident.

In other action the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department charged Claude Hines and Earl Minnfield, both of Calhoun, with theft in connection with the theft of a chain hoist.

Court Rules No Hanging As Protest

NEW YORK (AP) — People should be allowed to picket peacefully but that doesn't include flying sheets out apartment windows, a New York court ruled Friday.

Hundreds of residents of the sprawling Lincoln Towers apartments hung sheets and aluminum foil out their windows last fall, protesting a rent increase.

The Aluminum Company of America, owner of the project, went to court and got an injunction ordering the tenants to pull in their laundry.

The Appellate Division ruled the injunction was too broad.

"Picketing of this nature is but an extension of the right to free speech," the court said. But it added that tenants should be banned from hanging aluminum foil or other material out the window.

That, the court said, was trespassing upon a part of the apartment building reserved to Alcoa.

NO METERS

PARIS (UPI—The Paris Municipal Council Friday refused to try parking meters as a possible solution to the city's downtown traffic congestion.

Police had sought the trial installation of meters in an effort to unclog streets and bring in revenue. Public opposition to the idea was strong and the council defeated the move 47-41.

Future Class Goes Below First Grade

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Public schools of the future will add another year of schooling below the first grade, the new president of the National Education Association predicted Friday.

An increased demand for teachers will result largely from extending the number of years for mandatory schooling, Braulio Alonso, Tampa, Fla., high school principal, told a news conference prior to his installation Friday night at the closing session of the NEA's 105th convention.

Alonso, 49, succeeds Dr. Irvamae Applegate, dean of women at St. Cloud, Minn., College, to a one-year term as head of the one-million-member organization of teachers and school administrators.

Alonso said the biggest factors in the expected need for more teachers will be "the rapid extension downward to include two years below the first-grade level," and the growth of public education at the junior college level.

Most public schools now offer a year of kindergarten before the first-grade level.

Although a greatly increased number of school teachers will be necessary in the future, there will be no difficulty in finding them "when teaching becomes a financially rewarding profession," Alonso added.

Israel Defies U.N.

Although Israel's seizure of territory in three Arab nations and its determination to hold onto that territory is mortally serious business, there are many humorous and ironic aspects in the whole setup.

As we had expected and predicted, Israel calmly and quickly defied a United Nations suggestion that it give up territory it took in armed battles with forces of Egypt, Jordan and Syria. It flatly announced it would never give up the old city of Jerusalem it annexed after last month's war with the Arabs.

Without United States monetary and military support, the United Nations is less than a "paper tiger." Its hint to Israel to give up the seized territory is of no more value and meaning than "a voice crying in the wilderness." In sizing up the situation, Israel has correctly assumed that the United Nations won't take any military action to enforce withdrawal.

Actually, the United Nations did not go that far in its demand. The General Assembly voted 99-0, with 20 abstentions, including the United States, that annexation was illegal. The 122-member body defeated Russian - backed proposals condemning Israel and telling the Jewish state to withdraw her troops from occupied Arab soil.

In Tel Aviv Premier Levi Eshkol expressed open joy at the failure of United Nations resolutions demanding a return to the prewar status quo and said, "I never believed trat immoral resolutions could triumph so easily, not even in 1967. I am glad some justice is within reach these days."

Even Russia, which urged adoption of resolutions condemning Israel and ordering return of the territory had little comfort to give the Arab nations. Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, rated above Premier Kosygin in authority, defended Soviet policy in the Middle East after informed sources reported division within the Kremlin high command over how far to go in support of the Arabs. The Soviet Union's top leader indicated the Arabs still can expect no Soviet military action to aid them against Israel.

If Israeli reports on tanks captured in battles with Eygpt, Jordan and Syria are true, Israel must now rank high among the nations of the world in tank power, even though it is extremely small territorially. Israeli's chief of staff reported his country's army captured 700 Russian tanks and 100 American Patton and British Centurion tanks in the six-day war.

This apparently left the Arab nations virtually stripped of tanks and, in all probability, was the catastrophe that led to their quick surrender.

Asked whether intensified Soviet military training of the Egyptian army had posed a threat, Major General Yitzhak Rabin replied: "Even if the Russians actually take direct command of army units, there is no guarantee that the Egyptians can carry out their orders.

Among those who hotly protested the United Nations' lack of definite action and Israel's determination to hold onto all of Palestine were Russia and the Arab nations and three religious groups, two of them in the United Arab Republic. These two were the Moslem and Coptic religious groups.

The Roman Catholic church was the other strongly protesting religious group. In Vatican City, L'Osservatore Della Domenica condemned the annexation of Palestine. It renewed demands that all of Jerusalem be internationalized and "be no longer an apple of discord but a place of encounter, accessible to all. . ."

This view has been shared by a good many religious leaders and others of the world, their position being that since Jeruslem is the Holy City it should not belong to any particular country but should be shared by the whole world in the name of Christ.

Taking a ridiculous position, in view of Russia's world - wide policy of aggression, Brezhnev turned his wrath on Israel and said "the aggressors are behaving like the worst of the bandits and committing Hitlerite atrocities." Inasmuch as Russia's whole purpose since the end of World War II has been to seize every available nation through aggression, many think that, at best, Brezhnev's tirade amounted to "the pot calling the kettle black."

When Russia seizes a country, it calls it "liberation of the people" but when another nation takes additional territory the Soviet Union sees it as "aggression and banditry."

Israel's position was graphically summed up when Israeli Labor Minister General Yigal Allon told newsmen in Jerusalem:

"The world must reconcile itself to the fact that the city has at last returned to the nation that founded it and that turned it into a holy city."

Israel's General Rabin said the Russians were supplying Egypt with the more modern weapons—"much better than they had before."

All of this most certainly presages a long period of unrest and sporadic fighting in the Middle East. Arab nations will stage attacks and Israel will conduct counter - attacks. If the Arab attacks are persistent enough, Israel is likely to stage another massive military drive, to seize more territory and to retain possession of it.

Stopping Crime Outbreaks

When President Johnson laid the blame for crime increases on the people of the United States and called on them to do something about it with their votes, he should not have urged it, unless he intended to make his advice apply to himself and intended, himself, to do something about it.

Nine out of 10 people probably would tell you that the rapid upshoot in the crime rate has been brought about more by federal government condonement of law violations than any other single factor. President Johnson himself, has actually taken no steps to stop or lesson this sort of disrespect for law and order.

As we see it, the chief executive of the United States should take either one of two most positive actions to stop unlawful acts and rioting by so - called "black power" pushers and other integration leaders. He should either give state authorities full permission, through an official statement, to use whatever lawful methods are available to end rioting or should publicly announce that he will act through federal marshals or through nationalized national guardsmen to put down "black power" rioting with such force that the leaders will know they don't dare to try it again.

Rioting such has occurred recently in Cincinnati and other cities throughout the United States is a national disgrace and President Johnson knows it, as any intelligent official in the United States must know it.

Without making it one iota harder on an ordinary criminal for his offenses, President Johnson probably could reduce the ordinary crime rate in the United States at least 25 per cent by simply announcing that no more "black power" rioting, pillaging, plundering and other law violations will be permitted. He should either direct the state to take whatever steps are necessary to stop the rioting or should himself take such action.

If he does that, not only will respect for law and order increase but respect for the national administration inself will improve.

Raffles, a famous myna owned by explorer Carveth Wells, could whistle "The Star Spangled Banner" and other songs.

Powerful Sky Studies Planned

300 to 400-Inch Telescopes Are Proposed

SINCE JOHN GLENN first blasted off the launching pad at Cape Kennedy in one of the most dramatic historical moments this nation has known, the eyes of the nation have been turned upward.

Glenn's flight in the crude (by today's standards) spacecraft set off a chain of spectacular performances by astronauts that the nation cheered until a spacecraft fire early this year claimed the lives of three astronauts.

Since that January 27 fire, some scientists, politicians and laymen concerned with the conquest of space have had second thoughts about the necessity of sending men into space. They argue that unmanned space vehicles containing highly sophisticated equipment could do the job of exploring space just as well as man. The principal advantage is obvious: the risk of human life of exploring space in this manner would be near ezro.

THESE ARGUMENTS also have given a boost to the arguments that this nation should be spending more on super-powered telescopes, ones that would make most of the instruments in use today to study the stars look like mini-scopes.

The largest telescope in use today is the 200 inch instrument located on Mount Palomar in Southern California. Astronomers now are talking about the need for 300 and 400 inch telescopes to refine and improve the knowledge man has gained of his galaxy.

In the past, there has been some argument about whether such large telescopes could be used to full advantage because the instrument used to support large telescopes had not been developed.

At least part of that argument now has been knocked into a cocked hat. Lick Observatory at the University of California at Santa Cruz has developed the most sophisticated star surveying and measuring machines in the world.

THE MACHINES, in addition to increasing accuracy, have drastically reduced the time required for large scale surveys of the stars.

For example, one project now planned at Lick Observatory would have taken 40 to 50 years to complete. With the new equipment, the task will be completed in about five years.

The machines are designed to scan photographic plates of the skies and help astronomers select particular stars for study, as well as provide highly accurate information on the position and brightness of each star selected.

The survey machine presents on a visual screen images of two photographic plates of the same section of the sky. The photographs are made at different times, sometimes many years apart. Each plate can be inspected separately or images can be "blinked" in rapid sequence.

The stars that move appreciably during the interval between photographs seem to jump back and forth between their two locations on the photographic plates.

THE ASTRONOMER selects the celestial objects he wants to study and obtains a position for each, accurate to one-tenth of a millimeter (considered "rough" by astronomers.) This information is automatically punched on computer cards.

The cards are then fed into a measuring engine, which automatically uses the rough position as a guide to home in on a particular star and measure its position to an accuracy of better than one micron (100 times more accurate than the rough position.) The engine also measures the brightness on individual cards.

It takes just 35 seconds for the measuring engine to do its job.

Rescue Moves Made For Moise Tshombe

THE TELEPHONE rang early in the morning. An old friend, a man of convincing moral energy, greatly exercised by the morning's news of the kidnapping of Moise Tshombe. Already, he had telephoned to a friend high in the State Department. Not much encouragement. Algiers gets no foreign aid anyway. The Congo does get some, but it's hard to use foreign aid as blackmail — the foreign countries, in particular those who teeter on the brink of pro-Communism, never quite believe it when you threaten to withdraw U.S. aid.

Another thing: after the kidnapping of Adolph Eichmann in 1960, lawyers the world 'round did their homework and agreed that the most venerable laws have it that a duly-constituted tribunal can proceed to try someone against whom the state has lodged a complaint, irrespective of the means by which the defendant is captured and produced. No matter the illegality of the seizure of Eichmann in Argentina, the proceedings against him in Tel Aviv were not tainted. Ditto Colonel Argoud, kidnapped by de Gaulle's people in Germany and tried in Paris.

SO THAT NO matter the brazen illegality of the seizure of Tshombe's private plane, once delivered to Leopoldville, the former premier could be, and very likely would be, hanged by the neck until quite dead, with nobody around to read from any Congolese lawbooks, if there are any of them around uneaten.

My friend then put in a call to a high Belgian official temporarily in the country — there was a mutual friend. His Honor from Belgium was icy. Take your troubles, he said as though reading from a diplomatic primer, to your own government. The Belgians are not anxious openly to concede the special hold they have over the Congo even now, seven years after King Baudouin went down to Leopoldville, drew down the Belgian flag, and gave birth to chaos.

The Belgians maintain important commercial interests, particularly in Katanga, the home territory of Moise Tshome, and if they are going to pull any strings to save Tshombe's life, they are going to do so discreetly. After all, the Congo had issued stern warnings that it would break off relations with any nation that tried to put pressure on Algeria to detain Tshombe.

ANOTHER CALL, from a worldly aide to a powerful congressman. How gladly is Tshombe remembered among American conservatives and anti-Communists? Very gladly indeed, notwithstanding the general blur of the circumstances of his most recent exile in 1964. Tshombe got into a quarrel at that time with Kasavubu-Mobutu, though it is hardly supposed that the issue between them was Communism, since it was General Mobutu who had kicked out the Communist technicians several years before, and the three of them were united in their opposition to the pro-Communist Obenye, who led the massacres in the north and was finally subdued by Tshombe's mercenaries.

BUT UP UNTIL his rather mysterious exile, Tshombe was a symbol of black African resistance to maniacal anti-colonialism, one of the few incumbent addicts of law and order. He had led the unsuccessful secession of Katanga, and the UN army marched bravely, bombing hospitals along the way, to put an end to it, though the UN's inactivity in Nigeria — there is no serious talk of marching against the secession of Biafra — suggests that the UN has lost its anti-secessionist ardor.

At that time Tshombe accepted an invitation to come to New York to address a Madison Square Garden rally of the Young Americans for Freedom, but at the last moment the State Department refused him a visa.

What about putting a delegation together composed of old friends of Tshombe, plus a few pro-Arab New Yorkers, who might point out to relevant Algerians in the UN that to transship Tshombe to certain execution in the Congo would certainly alienate those Americans who, if not anti-Israel, are certainly not anti-Arab and who are disposed to put pressure on the U.S. government to repress Israel's exuberant imperialism, as these folk would put it. What would be the reaction of, say, the Algerian representative to the United States to such a delegation?

THE RADIO reports keep coming in. The government-controlled press and radio in Algeria are fuming away against "neo-colonialism sympathizers" and indicating that they will look with favor on the petition from the Congo to ship poor Tshombe there. Slight diplomatic problems of communication, because Algeria has not got around to re-recognizing the Congo, which it ceased to recognize early in 1964. Why? Because Algeria's Ben Bella so greatly disapproved of the Congo's premier — the same ebullient, urbane Moise Tshombe who sits now in some Algerian prison hoping against hope that those telephone calls, those delegations, those telegrams, all that activity, will concert successfully to save him.

He knows, as everyone does, what kind of justice was given to his successor Evariste Kimba. His trial, and that of three of his cabinet officers, was one of those show trials lasting only an hour or so. And it was only a matter of hours after that that they were led to the public scaffold and hanged.

All of which is a Progress Report on the rule of law, the international rights of man, the institution of habeas corpus, and the morality of our governors.

'Total' Integration In Schools Ordered

OVER THE NEXT few months, local school boards and school superintendents throughout the nation will find themselves confronted with an appalling but necessary piece of homework. They will have to wade through the portentous opinion of Circuit Judge J. Skelly Wright in the case known locally as Hobson v. Hansen.

If the bizarre principles laid down in this opinion win acceptance by the U. S. supreme Court, every school district in the country may find itself compelled to take revolutionary steps toward the integration of its public schools. And "integration," in Judge Wright's desire, does not mean racial integration only; it means socio-economic integration also, white with Negro, rich with poor.

Going for behind any requirements ever laid down before, Judge Wright has contrived some new constitutional rights. Thus, every Negro student has a constitutional right "to an integrated faculty." Every student has a constitutional right "to obtain an integrated educational experience." The District of Columbia School Board is ordered to base its policies on programs that will achieve "maximum effective integration." The hiring and assignment of incoming teachers "must proceed on a color-conscious basis to insure substantial and rapid teacher integration in every school."

THESE DRACONIAN pronouncements, binding only upon the D. C. school board, ironically will have relatively little impact here. The District's schools already are about 93 per cent Negro. Only a handful of white pupils are left to integrate with. The significance of Judge Wright's decree lies in its potential application to other cities that face "de facto" segregation brought about by housing patterns.

In 25 years of covering Federal courts, this correspondent never has seen an opinion quite like this one. The thing runs on for 183 heavily - footnoted pages. It is an editorial, an essay, a thesis, a panegyric. In part, it is demagoguery: "Everyone agrees that education should include the opportunity for bi-racial experience." Running through the opinion is a waspish animus against Washington's School Superintendent Carl F. Hansen; Judge Wright's tone is not the tone of a judge, but of a zealot, a fanatic. He is a man obsessed: He will achieve egalitarianism by the force of a court decree.

IN SPINNING out his opinion, Judge Wright relies primarily upon a slender thread in the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution. No person shall be deprived of "life, liberty, or property, without due process of law." Using the reverse English devised by Chief Justice Warren in the Bolling case 13 years ago, Judge Wright relies also upon the commandment of the Fourteenth Amendment that "no State" shall deny to any person the equal protection of the laws. It was "unthinkable," said Warren in this former D. D. school segregation case, that the Constitution should impose a lesser duty upon the Federal government than on the States.

From these constitutional roots, the strange fruit flowers. It is not enough, in Judge Wright's view, that pupils should be treated equally. Some are more equal than others. Therefore, Negroes and "the poor" are constitutionally entitled to "compensatory" treatment. A neighborhood school policy may have some advantages, but Judge Wright is not impressed by them. As presently administered, the District's neighborhood school policy "results in harm to Negro children and to society."

THE JUDGE IS especially contemptuous of the feelings and sensitivities of the white teachers who comprise 23 per cent of the District's faculty. Their personal preferences be damned: they must be shifted around like pawns this fall, and reassigned willy-nilly in the holy name of integration. Personal prejudice is "heresy" — his word — and should not be condoned.

In brief, this opinion is the outpouring of a despot who has swallowed emotionalism and regurgitated law. Because the court's orders are embraced by the District's predominantly Negro school board, the case will not be appealed. The District will have to live with it. The question is: What other cities may have to live with it, too?

United Nations Aims At Blackmail In Viet

BLACKMAIL, pure and unadorned, is the only word to sum up one approach to Middle Eastern peace that is being tried in the United Nations.

The approach is exemplified by the statement of the French foreign minister who, when he addressed the United Nations, set up this equation:

1 — There can be no peace in the Middle East so long as there is war in Vietnam.

2 — To end the war in Vietnam will require unilateral action (a polite phrase in this instance for withdrawal) by the United States.

To make this equation plausible, the French foreign minister had to admit that a major power, the Soviet Union, actually was the motive power behind the Arab pressures that brought the area to a bloody boil.

ALSO, TO MAKE the equation plausible, we have to assume that the Soviet Union has made it diplomatically clear around the world that they will continue to use the Arab countries as a weapon with which to force us out of Vietnam. That the French should serve as messenger boys for such an unworthy deal is indeed sad.

The incredible thing about this heavy - handed attempt at blackmail is that so many have fallen for it, accepting it as a legitimate, even honest way to make peace.

It would seem that anyone with good common sense would, instead of giving this outrage a second hearing, be able to construct an equation of his own to sum up the Middle East power play of the Soviet Union and its Arab cannon - fodder. That equation would read like this:

1 — There would be no war in the Middle East, nor war in Vietnam, if it were not for the active intervention of Communist forces and supplies.

2 — THERE CAN BE no peace in either area until communism abandons absolutely the use of aggressive force as an instrument of national policy.

That is the real problem in the real world. It is a moral and a political problem. The French view of the world, in which it is acceptable to submit to aggressive force, is an open acceptance and support of international immorality.

One useful element of the French approach is sharply to remind us that no major conflict in the world today is, or for a generation has been, isolated. All such violence is caused by communism.

COMMUNISM is the only conflict - centered and dedicated political force today with the power to wage continual aggression.

Communism is capable of it and has been doing it, is doing it, will do it so long as the world which it is assaulting does not take effective measures not simply to "contain" it but to roll it back and thus discourage its aggression.

That is why we are in Vietnam. That is what the Israelis did.

To simply contain such aggression would be, in Vietnam, to accept a coalition government, or, in Israel, to return to the status quo that existed before the Arab blockade.

At any rate, our answer to the blackmail threats being made today should be a resounding "never."

Crowds Of Jordanians Welcome King Hussein

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Huge crowds jamming the streets of this Jordanian capital welcomed King Hussein home Friday from a two-week tour of Western capitals.

The turbulent throngs erupted into massive demonstrations demanding the return of Israeli-occupied territory.

Police broke up the milling mobs.

At the controls of a Jordanian airliner, the king landed at Amman Airport from Athens. He was received by an honor guard and kisses from army and civilian leaders.

As the royal procession, with Hussein in a closed cream-colored limousine, passed through the jammed streets, there were shouts of "Hail Hussein" and applause.

Some of the shouts were for "Hussein-Nasser" coupling the name of the Egyptian president with the king's.

After the royal motorcade had passed, the excited crowds filled the streets, changing, "Palestine is Arab" and, "Jerusalem is Arab."

A truckload of foreign newsmen which became detached from the motorcade was surrounded by demonstrators shouting, "Johnson no good"

As the crowds thickened in the streets, police dispersed them by swinging batons and belts with heavy brass buckles.

The king's limousine was accompanied by six motorcycle outriders and six jeeps mounting machine guns, manned by the royal guard.

Armed troops watched from the housetops.

While away, the king addressed the United Nations General Assembly and conferred with President Johnson in Washington, Prime Minister Harold Wilson in London, President Charles de Gaulle in Paris, Premier Aldo Moro in Rome, and ended with an exceptionally long audience with Pope Paul VI at the Vatican.

Preaching on the Moslem Sabbath, Jordan's religious leader, Sheikh Abdullah Ghousheh, advised worshippers to "be patient and endure what has happened."

He said the United Nations had condemned itself by failing to pass a resolution on the Israel-Arab conflict, proving "it is a useless organization so long as it is under Zionist influence."

He called on all Moslems to make sacrifices to regain the holy places of Jerusalem, which he said were "being defiled by Jews." He urged refugees from the west bank of the Jordan River to go back to their homes because, he alleged, the Israelis wanted them to leave so they could take over Arab land.

Priest Puts Preaching In Practice

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Father Leonard Orzechowski, a Roman Catholic priest who says it is our obligation to uphold justice, put his preaching into practice Friday when he cut down a fleeing purse snatcher with a cross-body block.

The 29-year-old priest, a former high school football star, was driving his car shortly after midnight when he heard a woman screaming and saw a young man running.

"I jumped from the car and put the block on him," said the bespectacled, crew-cut priest, who played halfback for St. Joseph High School in Camden. He stands 5 feet 8 and weighs 170 pounds.

"It was a beauty," said Louis Nell in describing the block. Nell, 27, a bank auditor, was a passenger in the priest's car.

The alleged purse snatcher got to his feet and ran down an alley. Father Orzechowski and Nell chased and captured him after a brief scuffle.

Father Orzechowski, assistant pastor of the Holy Spirit Roman Catholic church here, said he went to the woman's aid because "it is our obligation to help our fellow man and to uphold justice."

He ripped his pants in the scuffle but otherwise, he said, "I'm still in shape."

Big Bear, Two Cubs Go To Town

MOUNT JEWETT, Pa. AP — A big black bear and her two hungry - looking cubs wandered into the backyard of a hotel around lunchtime Friday in this western Pennsylvania mountain town, frightened a few residents, then casually strolled down the street.

Mrs. Charles Bonini was flitting about the garden when her 12-year-old daughter shouted: "Mother, there's a bear in our yard!"

"And sure enough," said Mrs. Bonini, "there was this big bear standing there."

Her husband, tending bar at the time, heard his wife scream. He ran to the back door, splasing beer as he went, and saw the bears for himself.

"I've been hunting for years, but this is the first time I ever saw one," he said.

The bears, one weighing about 250 pounds, sniffed around the town, strolled past the church and down to the supermarket before disappearing into the woods. Along the way, mothers grabbed their children in fear, and even a police officer went scurrying.

State police said the bears drifted over to Hazelhurst two miles away, knocking over beehives and garbage cans as they went.

Suggests Occupation

Israel Makes Plans For New Territory

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel outlined plans Friday for administering its war-won Arab territories which suggest it was prepared for lengthy occupation.

In Arab schools, textbooks containing anti-Israeli propaganda will be replaced.

Israeli banks are being encouraged to open branches and offer loans to local residents.

Work on development projects under way at the outbreak of the Middle East war—roads, schools, public building—will continue under Israeli auspices. Israel is prepared to make loans to local authorities.

Farm and marketing experts are studying the possibility of diversifying the agriculture of the occupied territories so that they might mesh with Israel's economy.

An exhibition of products from the west bank of the Jordan River is soon to open in Tel Aviv.

"All kinds of study groups are investigating the economic affairs of these territories and going into long-term policies," reported an Israeli Defense Ministry spokesman.

The slogan is 'business as usual,' " he told newsmen.

"Commanders have been given a general directive to get civilian life back to normal as soon as possible."

Israel has budgeted 2.5 million Israeli pounds—$833,000—for getting administratimn machinery going again in the occupied territories during the month of July.

The final cost is sure to be much bigger," said the spokesman. "Whatever is needed will be supplied. We are doing everything possible to get civilian life back to normal. We are trying to help the Arab people find solutions to their problems."

Hospitals and other medical services were said to be operating normally in the occupied areas. Public transport is running again. Telephone services are being restored and postal services will start next week. Israeli stamps will be used.

Schools are scheduled to open in September, following the summer vacation.

Arab police—armed in the Gaza Strip—are helping maintain law and order, and civil courts with Arab judges will start functioning again next week.

For the present, Jordanian, Syrian and Egyptian currencies continue as legal tender in the occupied territories. But if the money runs out, special occupation dinars may be printed.

The Old City of Jerusalem is the exception. It has been officially taken over by Israel and Israeli currency is being used.

A major problem facing the Israeli government is the absorption of farm produce from the west bank of the Jordan into the economy.

A spokesman suggested that some products may be suitable for canning in Israel. Experts are studying the problem with a view to diversifying the agriculture of the area.

A town - by - town census will begin on Aug. 10 when all refugees wishing to return to Israeli - controlled areas should be back.

Brig. Gen. Haim Herzog, retiring military governor of the west bank of the Jordan, sounded a warning against integrating the area with Israel.

"I do not think it wise because of the ethnic and political problems involved." he said in an interview. "The best solution will be to accord the region an autonomous status, with Israel's security interests safeguarded.

"It is only a month since the war and we must not rush in with a drastic solution. We have all the trump cards. There is no need to hurry."

N. Y. Court Upholds Law For Flags

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State laws that prohibit burning of the American flag were upheld unanimously Friday by the state's highest court.

In doing so, the Court of Appeals sustained the conviction of Sidney Street of Brooklyn for burning a flag on a Brooklyn street corner. Street, 47, a Negro, burned the flag June 6 last year after he heard that James M. Meredith, a civil rights leader, had been shot and wounded during a march through Mississippi.

Street told a policeman, "I did it. If they did that to Meredith, we don't need the American Flag."

He was convicted in New York City's Criminal Court of violating a penal law that prohibits flag-burning. The judge suspended imposition of any sentence. Street's lawyers, in appealing to the high court, contended that the law violated constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech.

But Chief Judge Stanley H. Fuld said in his opinion that the intent of the law was to prevent a breach of the peace and this provision was constitutional.

Fuld said Street's action was one "of incitement, literally and figuratively 'incendiary' and as fraught with danger to the public peace as if he had stood on the street corner shouting epithets at passing pedestrians."

Angola Donations

ANGOLA, La. (AP)—Inmates of the Louisiana Prison here Friday donated $10,000 from their welfare fund to the State Industrial School for Colored Youth for recreation program use.

U.S. Plans Big Move To Integrate North

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal civil rights official said Friday the government is planning for the first time a major move against racial discrimination in schools of the North.

Since passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, federal officials have had their hands full dealing with illegal dual school systems for whites and Negroes in the South.

But Peter Libassi, civil rights enforcement director for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said in an interview:

"We're going to have to develop policies that deal with segregation in addition to the dual school system."

He said it will be a vastly more difficult job to find and halt discrimination in Northern schools.

When will the new move begin?

"We hope by about the middle of the coming school year," he replied.

He added the process will be gradual. "People shouldn't get the idea that when the government sets a policy, there's going to be immediate change."

And he cautioned that the new effort should not be interpreted as action against de facto segregation as such. In the North, de facto segregation usually refers to separation of the races in schools because of where people live.

Libassi said, however, the most recent federal court decisions have found that certain practices associated with Northern-style de facto Segregation are in violation of the Civil Rights Act.

He said these are:

—Gerrymandering, or unnatural drawing, of school district lines so as to keep whites and Negroes in separate schools.

—Use of optional school zones between white and Negro residential areas to permit whites to go to predominantly white schools.

—Assigning white teachers to white schools and Negro teachers to Negro schools.

—Other practices which result in any inequality of educational opportunity between predominantly white and predominantly Negro schools. He said these include inequalities in facilities, teachers and services.

How much discrimination of this type is there in the North? Libassi was asked.

"We don't have any idea," he said, adding that it's going to be an enormous job finding out.

In addition to the federal court decisions, Libassi believes that the House of Representatives recently made known its intent that "a greater effort is to be made by the department" against racial discrimination in Northern Schools.

He was referring to the much-debated amendment to pending aid to education by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., stating that the federal school desegregation guidelines should be applied equally throughout the country —North as well as South.

The Green amendment has yet to be considered by the Senate. But Libassi said he knows no major move against it.

Libassi said the job of eliminating dual school systems in the South is nearly completed. Out of 5,000 such systems existing in 1964, only about 1,500 will be left this fall.

Where does the department stand on perhaps the biggest and most explosive issue of all—de facto segregation?

SAC Chief Among Three Still Missing

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm, commander of the Strategic Air Command's 3rd Air Division on Guam, was among six men missing after the midair collision Thursday between two B52 bombers, SAC headquarters said Friday.

The bombers were enroute to a target in South Vietnam when they collided over the South China Sea, southeast of Saigon.

Gen. Crumm was the airborne commander accompanying the lead B52 from the 222nd Bomb Wing, March Air Force Base, Calif. Four men were rescued and three were missing from Crumm's aircraft. Three were rescued and three also were missing from the second B52 of the 45th Bomb Wing, Columbus AFB, Miss.

SAC said Air Force and Navy units continued to search for the missing crewmen.

Gen. Crumm, scheduled to report to the Pentagon in August as Air Force Director of aerospace programs, was leading one of the record nine B52 strikes within 24 hours.

Gen. Crumm, of New York City, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Crumm. His 26-year career spanned combat flying in both European and Pacific Theaters during World War II, and key assignments at SAC headquarters and the Pentagon.

Fire Buff Registers Alarm At Cost Of Hobby

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — "The important thing is that we don't take ourselves too seriously," the elderly man said as he fidgeted with his black-visored cap and gold badge that said he was a member of the International Fire Buffs Association — IFBA.

"It's only a hobby," he said, and others in the hotel's convention room agreed. "We can't let it run away with us."

Just then a receiver of the St. Louis Fire Department started beeping and a hush fell over the room. "Flush gasoline at..."

The dispatcher's words were drowned out as the buffs realized it wasn't going to be a two-alarm fire, one that all 200 attending the convention vowed to attend even if it's at 4 a.m. The hotel switchboard operator was given instructions to ring the room of every buff in the house in event of a two-alarm blaze.

The man with the gold badge on his hat, A.J. Burch of Detroit, continued: "I don't know how a person keeps this hobby under control. I spend $1,000 a year on it. Got three cars in the family and every one has a receiver in it for fire calls."

In an adjacent room buffs were killing them watching movies of the country's great fires.

Other buffs passed the time at a draft beer dispenser that was appropriately labeled "hydrant." It produced nothing but foam until a buff came up and told the beef chief to increase the pressure to 28 pounds.

IFBA President George Beaumont, retired St. Louis fireman, said there are 50,000 fire buffs in the United States, England and Canada. He said the applicants are carefully screened for six months.

"We want to see how they act at fires. Just one wrong word from a buff would cut our water off at fire lines. We don't want somebody trying to tell the fire chief how to run the show," Beaumont added.

The screening system failed at least once, however. Beaumont recalls one member of the St. Louis Club, Box 8, was arrested and charged with arson in connection with a number of fires.

Fire-fighting equipment salesmen are not accepted for membership.

The buffs, which include women, come from all walks of life.

Anita Holz of Cincinnati, Ohio, said she grew up in a family which was constantly chasing fire engines. She met her husband, Pat, a former fire dispatcher, at a fire. Both were just buffing at the time.

'Personifies Best Of England'

Queen Dubs Chichester Into British Knighthood

LONDON (AP) — Britain recalled the glory and courage of its past in ceremonies Friday honoring Sir Francis Chichester, the Briton who sailed alone around the world.

Queen Elizabeth II formally dubbed the 65-year-old mariner a knight, then 250,000 Britons cheered him as he rode through London's financial district perched on the back of a white convertible.

"You personify all that is best in Britain—the spirit of initiative, adventure and determination," London's lord mayor, Sir Robert Bellinger, told Chichester. "Your voyage has shown the world that Britons still have something which everyone needs—courage and resolution in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds."

"This welcome is not mostly for me but for a kind of symbol," Chichester replied. "My voyage represents an independent effort, a private enterprise that appeals to the British man."

Sir Francis said it was only "by the greatest luck and by the grace of God" that he was able to complete last May 28 the 28,500 mile sail in his 53-foot ketch Gipsy Moth IV.

Chichester's day began with a short sail up the Thames River to Greenwich, where Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, waited. Hundreds of boats sounded horns and dock cranes dipped in tribute.

As 2,000 persons watched in the sunny quadrangel of the Royal Naval College, Chichester placed a knee on a crimson cushioned knighting stool. Smiling, the queen tapped him on each shoulder with the sword her ancestor, the first Queen Elizabeth, had used to knight Britain's 16th century circumnavigator, Sir Francis Drake, a few miles up the Thames at Deptford.

Millions saw on television the brief ritual that was the formality of Chichester's knighthood announced by the queen last Jan. 28 before he left Sydney, Australia, on his homeward trip.

Wearing a blue blazer and sailing cap, Sir Francis escorted Elizabeth and Philip on a tour of his yacht. Then he set off upriver for an official reception in london.

About 5,000 persons gathered in front of the lord mayor's residence to see Chichester receive an engraved gold and silver globe.

Sir Robert told London's civic and financial leaders at a luncheon that Chichester is an "emblematic figure" to confound any who might suggest that Britain is "declining towards an enfeebled old age."

A city official said the reception had been planned for the banquet room of Guildhall, Lond's ancient governmental seat where custom requires formal dress, but was changed to the lord mayor's residence after Lady Chichester insisted on wearing her accustomed cherry-pink trouser suit.

Sir Francis is expected to go on a three-month vacation to recuperate from a recently bleeding stomach ulcer.

LBJ Refuses To Accept Congo Note

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department spokesman said Friday that President Johnson has refused a message from Congo President Joseph D. Mobutu. The spokesman refused to discuss any specific request for American assistance.

However, officials indicated that it is quite possible that transport aircraft are being sought to help loyal Congolese troops put down the uprising of rebellious soldiers and foreign mercenaries.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey told newsmen at his midday briefing that there had been a communication from Mobutu.

He also said that a mercenary-led group had departed from Bukabu in eastern Kivu Province and that government forces have reoccupied the city.

McCloskey said he could not confirm reports of continued fighting in Kisangani, the former city of Stanleyville. He said the American consul remains in Kisangani and the consulate is in operation in the city.

Ten more American missionaries are being evacuated from Bukavu and this brings the number of Americans flown out of there to 56.

'Kennedy Round' Might Hurt Some U.S. Firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration acknowledged Friday that some companies and workers might be hurt by the "Kennedy Round" of tariff cuts but it promised federal aid to ease any disruptions.

Although insisting the tariff cuts will mean more jobs and better business for Americans generally, the administration leaders who outlined the negotiations at a U.S. Chamber of Commerce conference said Congress will be asked to provide help where either labor or management is hurt by increased imports.

No specific firms or groups of workers were mentioned at the day-long conference but the steel, textile and chemical industries have been loudest in criticism of the tariff agreement signed last Friday at Geneva.

The pact calls for tariff cuts averaging about 35 per cent on 6,000 items with some of the reductions ranging up to 50 per cent.

William M. Roth, President Johnson's special representative for trade negotiations, said the United States received commitments equal to those which it made in the 53-nation talks.

But Undersecretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said although no unmanageable labor dislocations are anticipated "particular firms and groups of workers may be adversely affected."

Later, in response to a question, George L. P. Weaver, assistant secretary of labor for international affairs, said the relief to be requested from Congress would probably take the form of technical aid and loans for business and retraining and unemployment compensation for workers.

"We believe that adjustment assistance is an effective way to assist workers and firms to adapt to changing economic conditions," Reynolds told the more than 500 businessmen who attended the session.

"It is in this spirit," Reynolds added, "that the administration will be asking the Congress to amend the trade expansion act to ensure that the intent and promise of the adjustment assistance program can be realized by workers and firms who have been displaced because of important competition."

But he said the nation's real stake in the Kennedy Round, named for President John F. Kennedy, who initiated U.S. participation in the talks, is in more and better jobs, higher wages and rising incomes.

Secretary of Commerce Alexander B. Trowbridge disputed criticism of the agreement from the steel, textile and chemical industries while Roth said the chemical agreement will afford "very significant" new export opportunities into rapidly expanding European markets.

The tariff cuts will begin taking effect Jan. 1 and will be completed Jan. 1, 1972.

Lightning Hits Crude Oil Tank

GLADEWATER, Tex. (UPI)— Lightning hit a battery of crude oil storage tanks during a thunderstorm at Gladewater early Friday, and touched off a $50,000 fire.

Authorities said some 6,500 barrels of oil were destroyed by the fire that was still burning in late afternoon. A total of 30 families in a nearby federal housing project left their homes at the peak of the fire as a precautionary matter.

Some of the homes were slightly damaged by heat and water. But there were no injuries.

New Tax Proposal Hits Familiar Snag

By MILO DAKIN
World Staff Writer

The proposed half - cent sales tax for Ouachita Parish is about in the same position its predecessor, the fifth District sales tax was at the beginning— caught in a disagreement between the parish and city school board.

The Ouachita Parish School Board — 18 members strong — voted unanimously Thursday night to call the half - cent tax election either on August 22 or August 29. The four - man Monroe City School Board followed up Friday morning by tossing the subject aside as "premature."

This is basically what happened to the fifth District sales tax several months before the voters finally defeated it. The Monroe City School Board at one time in 1966 voted down the one - cent tax proposal which would have spent 65 cents of every dollar collected for education. The final endorsement with all five board members present was a narrow 3-2 vote.

As in its action Thursday, the parish board backed the previous sales tax on a unanmious vote.

The local option law approved three years ago by the Legislature gives school boards authority to call tax elections within their jurisdiction of up to one cent. Since then some 30 school boards have done just that, giving their teachers annual raises in the $500 - per-year range.

But the big difference in these parishes which are heavily concertrated in South Louisiana, is that there is only one school board. Hence one vote is all that is necessary to call an election.

But the law allowing parish sales taxes specifically provides that in Ouachita, both the parish and city school board must approve. This law likewise applies to the other dual systems operating in Calcasieu and Washington parishes. Officials in Calcasieu, after facing repeated coordinating problems such as often arises in Ouachita, have successfully enacted legislation to consolidate both systems into one.

The city board feeling Friday appeared to be one of "wait and see." Board member L. S. Daniel expressed a wish for a "complete look" at the new proposal. Robert Kennedy said the board should wait for the return of school personnel from vacation before taking a position.

Board president William Gannaway summed up the general opinion of the board with this statement: "We are inclined to look with favor on the idea of such a tax, but I feel the timing is premature."

New Orleans Warily Eyes First Love-In

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The antique City of New Orleans Friday awaited its first "Love-In" in history, nervously trying not to fret over the gathering of hippies.

The hippies, and anybody else who wants to come, will hold the "Love-In" Audubon Saturday at 280-acre Park, which Mayor Victor Schiro said they might use.

The Mayor said: "As long as they act like ladies and gentlemen, we have no objection.

"We're not going to let a lot of non-conformists disturb our decorum."

A big question in New Orleans for weeks has been, What is a Love-In?

A minister to hippies from a French Quarter church denied at one point it is a fling of free love.

It seems, it'll be a picnic with invitations supplied by the guests, with at least two bands and displays by hippie artists.

Dancing, talking, eating or just strumming guitars will be the order of the love-in, plus making friends. Reserved for it is Park Shelter No. 9, near the sea lion pool.

Park Supt. John Fruchnicht said: "We don't expect any trouble."

If trouble is there, Fruchnicht said, police will "put the hippies out."

Meanwhile, police arrested four persons who reportedly planned to attend the love-in. They were charged with possession of marijuana.

Gov. Reagan Third Choice In California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan now is the third choice in a sampling of California Republican voters for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination, the California Poll reported Friday.

Reagan jumped ahead of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the late June survey compared with the previous poll in early May, said Mervin D. Field whose firm conducts the poll.

The pollsters asked California Republicans who they would like to see get the GOP presidential nomination if the convention were held now.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon got 33 per cent compared with 32 per cent in May, Michigan Gov. George W. Romney 23 per cent, down from 27 per cent in May; Reagan 15 per cent, up from 7 per cent, and Rockefeller 10 per cent compared with 9 per cent in May.

Living Cost Rises

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The cost of living in Rio edged up only four-tenths of 1 per cent last month in contrast with a rise of 2 per cent in June 1966 and an increase of 16 per cent for the first six months this year, the semiofficial Getulio Vargas Foundation reported.

Round World Flight

Aviatrix Completes Amelia Earhart Flight

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Blonde, windblown Ann Pellegreno, retracing the route on which Amelia Earhart mysteriously vanished 30 years ago, landed her 30-year-old plane at Oakland International Airport on Friday afternoon, completing a four-week flight around the world.

The aviatrix and former schoolteacher from Saline, Mich., was accompanied by a three-man crew on the eastbound commemorative flight which began at Oakland on June 9.

Electra, a 30-year-old plane of the same type Miss Earhart flew, made the final leg from Honolulu to Oakland in 18 hours and 25 monutes. Headwinds over the Pacific made it about one and one-half hours later than planned, but Mrs. Pellegreno said there were "no problems."

She was at the controls as the plane swopped low over the field, circled and landed.

Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, disappeared July 2, 1937, while flying from Lae, New Guinea, towards Howland Island in the southwest Pacific.

Mrs. Pellegreno's flight, backed by a number of commercial sponsors, was announced as aimed at shedding some light on the mystery. She was accompanied by Air Force Col. William Payne as copilot; William Polhemus, an Ann Arbor radio equipment executive as navigator; and Lee Koepke, who bought and refitted the plane, as Mechanic.

"It was after we left New Guinea that we felt for the first time we were really retracing history," the petite Mrs. Pellegreno told newsmen at planeside.

"We ran into a couple of rain squalls, as Miss Earhart did.

"When Amelia made the flight, a landing strip had been prepared for her on Howland. We couldn't even see it when we flew over—only a lighthouse, but we dropped some flowers."

Asked if her trip had indeed shed any light on the Earhart disappearance, she replied, "We talked to a few people. We have some information coming in by mail, but I think she—Miss Earhart—went down in the Pacific not an abnormally far distance from Howland Island."

Fred Goerner, CBS newsman who wrote a book based on the contention that Miss Earhart went down near the Marshall Islands, about 1,500 miles to the north, and was executed by the Japanese, challenged Mrs. Pellegreno.

He commented that she had not actually retraced the Earhart route, as she flew from Lae, New Guinea, to Tarawa, in the Gilbert Islands, then over Howland, whereas Miss Earhart did not stop at Tarawa.

"I knew you were going to say that," Mrs. Pellegreno replied, "but it doesn't make any difference. We easily could have made the flight directly."

Goerner pressed for what she had learned but she replied again that she had some information coming by mail.

She said they had logged 243 hours of flying time since leaving Oakland just 28 days ago, "and that's a lot."

The mileage she estimated at "at least 27,000, maybe a little more."

She added: "We had no automatic pilot, so Bill Payne and I flew it."

She said her next plans were "to go home and relax a lot," but first the party will fly Saturday to Newton, Kan., for a civic celebration. Mrs. Pellegreno's husband and the crew members' wives are waiting there.

Why Newton? "No particular reason," she replied. "It just grew, but they are planning a buffalo barbecue and a big civic meeting."

Among those greeting the fliers in Oakland was Vivian Maata who was Amelia Earhart's secretary and lives in Oakland.

Another was E.H. Dimity, 83, president of the Amelia Earhart Foundation. He said this group, formed in December 1937, raised $150,000 and chartered a ship to hunt for the lost aviatrix but the United States government intervened.

The government advised against the hunt because of the war-threatening atmosphere at that time, he said, but the foundation still exists.

Mrs. Pellegreno and the crew were to be guests at a dinner scheduled Friday night at an airport in by about 50 of their well-wishers.

Report Shows Estes' Assets

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Former farm finance "boy wonder" Billie Sol Estes has in his bankrupt estate current assets totaling $1.32 million, the court-appointed trustee reported Thursday.

Trustee Harry Moore Jr. said the estate includes 1.2 million in cash deposits on U.S. Treasury bills and a $74,000 cash value life insurance policy.

Claims against the Estes bankrupt estate include $12 million the U.S. government asks in unpaid taxes and a like amount sought by finance companies, plus approximately $1 million in other creditors' claims.

Moore said creditors' would not have any chance for a substantial dividend for some time.

Malcolm McGregor, the federal referee in bankruptcy, is considering the income tax claims against the estate and is expected to rule in a few weeks on the claims.

Some Fashion Houses Cater To People People

NEW YORK (AP) — There are still a few fashion houses left that make clothes a man might buy for his wife, not for his daughter, or his mistress.

These clothes are modest, ladylike and look like they set him back a pretty penny though they are cheap, cheap, cheap.

These are not space age, booted, miniskirted costumes put together with tinfoil and hardware. Nor are they sirenlike, nor wanton.

Karen Stark, designer for Harvey Berin, created a line which surely must have had the husband in mind and showed it off to fashion editors Friday.

She seemed to know that though men whistle at misses in tight skirts slight to the thighs and bosoms oozing from decolletage, they prefer their own wives in demure gowns with sleeves to the wrists and necklines to the chin. She also seemed to keep in mind that husbands as a whole are old-fashioned men who like to see waistlines and bosom lines and hemlines where they really are.

What is a dream wife? Many versions of her appeared in the Berin collection. She was smart and understated in simple, slim melton coats worn over slim and simple dresses, horizontally striped for a bit of dash.

She was refined and gracious in luscious long fitted velvet dinner gown with Puritan — what else? — collars and cuffs.

And she was czarina-like in rich silk white and pale pastel costumes, dress and coat, one after another, each blazing with fake jewels, Moreover, glittering bib necklaces, or rhinestone dog collars, or bracelets were sewn into garments, eliminating lost jewelry.

Sometimes she was a fantastic status symbol in elegant formal wear so dazzling with embroidered-on jewels that a bank clerk might think twice buying one for his wife.

Javier's Single Caps Rally, Redbirds Topple Phillies, 5-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julian Javier's two-run single highlighted a four-run sixth inning which carried the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night. With the score 1-1, Lou Brock started the sixth with a single and Bob Tolan walked. The runners advanced on an infield out, and Brock scored when Tony Taylor threw too late to the plate after taking a Orlando Cepeda's high chopper toward first.

Tim McCarver walked loading the bases and Mike Shannon fanned before Javier drilled a single to right scoring Tolan and Cepeda. When John Callison's throw sailed past catcher Gene Oliver for an error, Cepeda also scored.

The errant throw skidded past Oliver and smashed Phillies' pitcher Larry Jackson on the nose, causing severe lacerations. Jackson, who lost his ninth in 15 decisions, was forced to leave the game. X rays will be taken today.

The National League leading Cardinals took a 1-0 lead in the second on a walk, Shannon's double and a fielder's choice. Doubles by Jackson and Tony Taylor accounted for a Phillies' run in the third off winning pitcher Steve Carlton.

Rod Funseth Shoots 70 To Lead By Two

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Rod Funseth missed his eagle but shot a two-under-par 70 Friday and took a two-stroke lead at the halfway point of the $100,000 Speedway Open Golf Tournament with 137.

Gene Littler dropped two 40-foot putts, posted a four-under-par 68 and charged into a tie with R. H. Sikes for second place on 36-hole totals of 139 .

Sikes, who had shared the first-round lead with Funseth at 67, couldn't make any long putts and matched the Speedway par 72 for his 139.

Frank Beard added a one-under-par 71 to his opening 70 for 141, good for fourth place.

Lou Graham, who started the second round in third place at 68, slipped to 74 and a fifth-place with Cliff Brown and Rives McBee at 142.

Defending champion Billy Casper, who could only match par 72 in his first round, slipped a stroke over at 73 and was well back in the field of 145.

Funseth, who chipped in from 120 feet for an eagle 3 on the 503-yard seventh hole Thursday, barely missed another eagle on that hole Friday on a 20-foot putt.

Hank Aaron led off the ninth with a double, the sixth hit off Met starter Bob Hendley, and moved over to third on a ground out before Torre singled to left against reliever Hal Reniff.

The Mets took a 2-0 lead against right-hander Tony Cloninger in the first inning. Bud Harrelson led off with a double and scored on a single by Larry Stahl, who was cut down trying for second on the throw in.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pete Rose slammed four hits and drove in three runs, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-2 victory over Pittsburgh Friday night behind the six-hit pitching of Sammy Ellis.

Rose tripled in the fifth inning to score Vada Pinson and break a 1-1 tie, then scored what proved to be the deciding run on Tony Perez' sacrifice fly.

In the ninth, Rose cracked a two-run double and scored on Perez' single as the Reds wrapped up the victory. He also had a double in the first inning and a single in the third.

Ellis, 6-5, picked up his first victory in nine starts since May 24. Both Pittsburgh runs were unearned.

The Pirates scored without a hit in the first inning when Matty Alou walked, stole second and third and continued home as catcher Jim Coker threw the ball into left field.

Restores Australian Tennis Supremacy

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — John Newcombe, 23 - year - old Australian Davis Cup ace, won the Wimbledon Tennis' title Friday by crushing Wilhelm Bungert of West Germany 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 in the most one-sided final in years.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Pro

In a massacre lasting only 75 minutes, Newcombe regained Wimbledon supremacy for the Australians, who now have taken the crown nine times in 12 years. Manuel Santana of Spain won it last year.

The final proved a big disappointment for the 15,000 fans.

The men's final had been widely billed as a duel between Australian power tennis and German coolness and method. But Bungert, the first German to make the final since Baron Gottfriend Von Cramm in 1937, failed completely to rise to the occasion.

The German's resistance was so feeble that Newcombe didn't need to play his usual powerful game. He held back on his booming service and was cautious in going to the net and volleying.

But he did everything efficiently, and by playing at half-pressure he easily won the title.

Thus this see-sawing 81st All-England tournament, which produced more upsets than any other in memory, remained unpredictable to the end. Bungert had defeated such players as Thomas Koch of Brazil and Roger Taylor of Britain on the way to the final, and nobody expected him to give in as easily as he did.

From the start of the tournament, seeds were toppled like ten pins on the fastest grass courts Wimbledon has known for years. Perhaps the speed of the turf, after a long spell of dry weather, helped to level the players and produce all the upsets.

Newcombe was seeded No. 3 and was the only one of the eight seeded players to reach the semifinals.

Bungert started well enough. In the third game he hit two superb backhand service returns and captured Newcombe's service at love to lead 2-1.

But in the next gme the German's form was just too bad to be true. After leading 30-0 he doublte-faulted twice. Then, after going to advantage point, he threw away three more points and allowed Newcombe to break back.

Bungert lacked a punishing volly, and Newcombe exploited the weakness by offering him a couple of teasing lobs in the eighth game. Bungert failed to score with his smashes each time, and Newcombe went on to break him with a chipped forehand service return.

In the third game of the second set the German hit two wretched half-volleys, and Newcombe then stroked a forehand past him to break for a 2-1 lead.

Newcombe made some errors in the next game, and Bungert was three times within a point of breaking back. The German was unlucky with two lobs which narrowly missed the baseline, and Newcombe survived to win that game and then strolled forward to a victory that became easier with almost every game.

The match lasted for 10 more games, and Newcombe won nine of them.

British tennis buffs expect more excitement in the women's final Saturday pitting Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., against Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones, the first British finalist since Angela Mortimer won in 1961.

Mrs. King teamed with Rosemary Casals of San Francisco for a 6-1, 6-4 victory over the English pair of Mrs. Jones and Virginia Wade.

Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., and Maria Bueno of Brazil won over Judy Tegart and Lesley Turner of Australia 4-6 ,6-4, 6-4.

Misses Richey and Bueno, as defending champions were seeded No. 1. The King-Casals duo was No. 3.

CHICAGO SUFFERS 5TH STRAIGHT DEFEAT, 11-5

HOUSTON (AP) — Two-run doubles by Ron Davis and Bob Aspromonte keyed a five-run Houston fourth inning that started the Astros to an 11-5 victory over Chicago Friday night.

It was the fifth straight loss for the second place Cubs and shoved them 2½ games back of first place St. Louis.

Houston was trailing 3-1 when Chuck Harrison and Dave Adlesh opened the fourth with singles. Winning pitcher Barry Latman, who worked 5 2-3 innings of two-hit relief, sacrificed the runners along and Davis doubled them home.

After Sonny Jackson bounced out, Jim Wynn walked and Rusty Staub singled Davis across. Then Aspromonte, who had driven in a run in the first, tagged his double, climaxing the five-run burst.

Wynn doubled two more Houston runs across in the fifth and ran his league leading runs batted in total to 62.

Yankees End Loss Streak, Blank Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joe Pepitone's two-run homer in the eighth broke open a pitcher's duel as the New York Yankees defeated the Baltimore Orioles 3-0 Friday night behind the four-hit pitching of Al Downing.

The victory ended a five-game losing streak for the Yankees.

Mickey Mantle, who drove in the first New York run with a towering fly ball double in the sixth, kept the Yanks alive in the eighth with a two-out single off loser Eddie Fisher.

Mike Hegan, inserted as a pinch-runner for the limping Mantle, then loafed around the bases on Pepitone's sixth homer—a drive over the center field fence.

Mantle's double in the sixth, following singles by Jake Gibbs and Steve Whitaker, bounced off the right field wall above the leaping Sam Bowens, barely fair and just short of being a homer.

Downing, bringing his record to 9-5, struck out 12 and permitted only one base runner to reach second. Two of the Oriole hits never left the infield.

Fisher relieved starter Bill Dillman in the fourth inning after the Oriole rookie pulled a muscle below the right armpit.

Angels Defeat Kansas City, 7-2

ANAHEIM (AP) — Rick Reichardt, wearing glasses for the first time in his career, clouted two of California's four home runs Friday night as the Angels won the first game of a twi-night doubleheader against Kansas City 7-2. Reichardt's homers, his 10th and 11th of the year, accounted for three runs and helped California gain its 22nd victory in their last 30 games.

Don Mincher slammed a three-run homer for the Angels and Paul Schaal hit one with the bases empty. Homers accounted for all the California runs and have accounted for the Angels' last 11 runs.

Jim McGlothlin survived seven Kansas City hits and gained his eighth victory against two defeats. The loss went to left-hander Paul Lindblad, 4-3, who gave up all the Angel runs.

Chicago Snaps Twins' Streak With 2 Unearned Runs In 9th

CHICAGO (AP) — Two runs scored when shortstop Zoilo Versalles booted Ron Hansen's bases-loaded grounder with two out in the ninth inning, giving the Chicago White Sox a 2-1 victory over Minnesota Friday night that ended the Twins' winning streak at eight games.

The loss dropped the Twins into third place in the American League race, one-half game behind Detroit and 3½ behind first place Chicago.

The White Sox, blanked on five hits by Dean Chance until the ninth, loaded the bases with one out on Tom McCraw's single and walks to Jim King and J.C. Martin.

Al Worthington then replaced Chance and got Don Buford to foul out before Hansen's bouncer skipped through Versalles, allowing McCraw and pinch runner Charlie Bradford to score.

Hoyt Wilhelm picked up the victory in relief of left-hander Gary Peters, who gave up a first inning run on doubles by Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva, then held the Twins hitless until going out for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Chance, who suffered his seventh loss in 18 decisions, had worked out of a jam in the eighth inning, when pinch hitter Wayne Causey singled and Tommie Agee drew a walk with two out. He ended the threat by getting Ken Berry to ground out.

East's Passing Bombardment Makes West 7-Point Underdog

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The 1967 football season gets under way Saturday night when the favored East battles the West in the Coaches All-America game featuring the passing of Florida's Steve Spurrier.

The Heisman Trophy winner will quarterback the East with help from Purdue's Bob Griese, and the West may be hard-pressed to stop the expected passing bombardment.

The West will be directed by Jon Brittenum, one of three Arkansas players on the starting lineup named by Coach Bob Devaney of Nebraska.

The game, which starts at 9:30 p.m. EDT, will be nationally televised by ABC-TV, with Atlanta blacked out.

The late start has hurt ticket sales and the crowd is expected to fall far short of the 38,000 that turned out a year ago, first time the game was played in Atlanta after five years in Buffalo, N.Y.

Rain has cooled Atlanta the last two days and temperatures under clearing skies are expected t obe in the 60s or 70s at gametime, about 20 degrees below the readings last year.

Both teams have won three of the previous games but Spurrier's passing, the running of famed Floyd Little of Syracuse and Nick Eddy of Notre Dame and the defensive play of linebackers Jim Lynch of Notre Dame, George Webster of Michigan State and Paul Naumoff of Tennessee have made the East a seven-point favorite.

East Coach Tom Cahill of Army, the 1966 college coach of the year, goes into the game full of praise for his team's aggressive attitude during a week of drills.

"These boys came to play, and I think it will be a great game," said Cahill, who added that he isn't used to working with so many talented players.

Despite the passing ability of Spurrier and Griese, Cahill indicated he would call plenty of running plays to take advantage of the power and elusiveness of Little and Eddy.

Devaney said that the East deserves its tag as the favorite because it has more big-name name players, but he said that in the last couple of workouts the West squad "got to know each other, and started to look pretty tough."

Brittenum, the scampering passer who holds most of the Arkansas aerial records, will be backed up by Houston quarterback Bo Burris.

Running chores for the West will be handled by halfback Mel Farr of UCLA and fullbacks Harry Wilson of Nebraska and Ray McDonald, the 240-pound blockbuster from Idaho.

Brittenum's passes will be aimed at flanker Rod Sherman of Southern Cal and ends Dave Williams of Washington and Tom Beer of Houston.

Main target of the East's passing attack will be Michigan State end Gene Washington, rangy 215-pounder who has been a practice standout all week.

"Our defensive backs will have to play their best for us to hold them," Devaney said. "But I think our quarterbacks will surprise some people with their passing, although they didn't get the headlines that Spurrier and Griese got last fall."

To Leave Country

Action Postponed On Clay's Request

HOUSTON (UPI) A U S district judge Friday postponed action on a request by Cassius Clay to leave this country until he could investigate what he said were possible anti-American activities on the part of the ex-champion.

Judge Joe Ingraham cited a "peace rally" held in Los Angeles June 25 at which Clay spoke.

"I am concerned about his attending these rallies," the judge said. "I think I need to know more about it."

Clay, who is appealing a conviction for refusing induction into the Army, is free on a 5,000 appeal bond. Under the bond, Clay must obtain Ingraham's permission to leave the county.

He had asked Ingraham to be allowed to go to Tokyo on Aug. 15 for a 30-day period in which he planned to fight. He said he planned the bout because he needed money to pay his alimony and attorneys fees.

Clay admitted under cross-examination by U. S. Atty. Morton Susman that he had attended the Los Angeles rally, but said he did not do so to show any anti-American feelings

"I was invited to say a few words. I spoke about five minutes," Clay said. "I did not say anything controversial."

"Did you tell them anything about not going into the Army?" asked Susman.

"I told them I was not going to encourage them to stay out of the Army, but that whatever they did they had to do on their own conscience," the former champion said.

Clay also said his actions in stopping a crowd of Negroes from attacking two white newsmen last month in San Diego, Calif., showed he was not anti-American.

"I told that crowd at the top of my voice that it was unnecessary and that I was not for it," he said. "And they stopped."

Susman said he thought the FBI could have a report ready on Clay's activities at the rally within two weeks, and Ingraham reset the hearing date for July 21.

McDowell's Play Sparks Indians, 6-3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sam McDowell hurled a four-hitter and drove in a run with a seventh inning single as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Washington Senators 6-3 Friday night.

McDowell, who struck out 10, was locked in a scoreless duel with Camilo Pascual until Lee Maye opened the Cleveland sixth with a home run.

The Senators, who managed only one hit off McDowell in the first six innings, tied it in the seventh on doubles by Frank Howard and Paul Casanova.

Cleveland bounced back with two runs in the bottom of the seventh when Duke Sims doubled and rode home on Pedro Gonzalez' single.

Tony Horton's pinch triple and Chico Salmon's double keyed Cleveland's three-run eighth. Casanova homered for the Senators in the ninth.

The victory was McDowell's fifth in 12 decisions. Pascual is 7-6.

Meet Has 8 Standard Breakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eight stars competing this weekend in the United States-British Commonwealth track and field meet already this year have bettered world records with more expected to fall Saturday and Sunday.

Feature event on the opening day of the international competition pits America's Jim Ryun against Kenya's Kipchoge Keino in the 1,500-meter run.

Two weeks ago, the Kansas sophomore lowered his mile record to 3:51.1.

Pole vaulters Paul Wilson and Bob Seagren try again to reach the 18-foot mark. Seagren cleared 17-7 early this year and then Wilson hoisted the record to 17-8 in the AAU meet where Ryun ran his greatest mile.

Tireless Ron Clarke of Australia, who lowered the two-mile mark a week ago, tries the 5,000 meters on Sunday facing America's Gerry Lindgren and possibly Keino.

Judy Pollock of Australia bettered the women's 800 - meter mark with 2:01 flat but must beat Madeline Manning of Tennessee State who last week posted a new American mark of 2:03.6.

Strongman Randy Matson of Texas A&M boosted his shot put record to 71-5½ last April and poses a threat to do even better every time he goes into the ring.

San Jose State's Tommie Smith ran to new records at 440 yards and 400 meters but skips that race this time to concentrate on the 200 meters, where he also holds the record.

Although not part of the dual competition, a special decathlon competition will be held with three stars from West Germany competing against the outstanding 10-event men from the USA and the Commonwealth. Kurt Bendlin, West German student, raised the decathlon record to 8,219 points this year.

Denis Watts, coach of the Commonwealth team, joins those looking for new records in the Coliseum this time.

He says: "On the plane coming over from London, we discussed world records which might be broken. We started off with six and finally decided that as many as 10 might go."

AA-Fuelers Lead Card At Harmon

Harmon Memorial Raceway has received seven confirmed entries in the AA-fuel dragster class, one of the feature events to be run at the local track tonight.

Tonight's schedule of entrants now totals over any past dragster card and will be the largest ever presented at Harmon in the fueler division.

This feature event is one of the special events to be run during the National Hot Rod Association (NHRA) division record run with cars and drivers competing for the purses and division record certificates.

Scores of drivers from the five state division will tow in from Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico and Louisiana.

Another feature tonight will be the "the pure fun bonanaza," over to all show room stock cars and for the first time prize money will be paid the winners.

A special state map trophy has been made for commemoration of this special race to show the appreciation of Harmon to the cars that have entered and to the NHRA for the selection of the local track for this important event, a track spokesman said late Friday.

The trophy will be presented to winners in the special feature class.

Trophy's and cash purses will be paid in all NHRA classes and a "top dog" event will climax the night's race program.

Harmon is located off U. S. Highway 165 south. Gates will open to practice at 2:30 p.m., with feature races beginning at 8 p.m.

De Gaulle Appears To Reverse Traditional Alliances With America, Western Europe

PARIS (AP) — Many Frenchmen are wondering whether President Charles de Gaulle is leading France to a reversal of traditional alliances with American and Western Europe.

For months De Gaulle has had France in the Soviet camp on Vietnam and in recent weeks has sided with Moscow and the Arab states on the Middle East crisis.

He has appeared more anti-American than the Russians, prompting a satirical newspaper to accuse him of being "more royalist than the king."

He remains out of step with his Western European partners on another important issue, the British bid for Common Market membership, which he opposes.

This week he withdrew France from a joint project with Britain to build a swing-wing fighter-bomber able to deliver nuclear bombs. This dealt a severe blow to Britain's defense planning and ailing aircraft industry.

In the aftermath of the Middle East war between Israel and the Arabs that cut off oil supplies to the British, De Gaulle has taken steps toward banning re-export of fuel and fuel products to needy neighbors. Thus he can prohibit export of oil to Britain.

The act is regarded by some British leaders as another French attempt to carry favor with the Arabs in a deliberate policy of exploiting the Middle East crisis for French national goals.

France voted against Israel and with the Soviet Union on resolutions in the United Nations and this "places us once more in the camp hostile to our traditional friends, America, England and others," said the frequency progovernment newspaper Figaro.

"Where does De Gaulle wish to lead us? By what paths?" asked Figaro.

This question is being repeated by thoughtful Frenchmen, including Gaullist, who are being restless over what Le Monde's foreign affairs writer Andre Fontaine calls the president's "personal tendency, which is becoming worse with age, to decide things on high, without consultation." De Gaulle is 76.

Among all the foreign poilcy positions he has taken in the past few years, the most controversial and most criticized in France was his stand on the side of the Arabs. It has caused a great deal of murmuring in Gaullist ranks and nearly led to the resignation of Defense Minister Pierre Messmer. The position in the Gaullist party is probably as near as it has ever been to revolt.

Many followers are now saying he has gone too far and is on the verge of reversing his country's alliances. Why else, they ask, did France forsake Israel, which De Gaulle once toasted as "our friend and ally," and desert the West for Russia's side.

Recent visitors to Elysee Palace report that De Gaulle is convinced the growth of U.S. power has disrupted the Russian-American balance, and that France must help restore the equilibrium.

Reception At Mansion Follows Ellender-Roan Wedding Vows

After the wedding of Miss Mary Miller Roan, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Jarret Roan of San Antonio, Tex., and Timothy C. Ellender, son of Mrs. Willard A. Ellender and the late Dr. Ellender of Houma, a reception was held at the Governor's Mansion in Baton Rouge.

The Rev. Donald Eggleston officiated at the double-ring ceremony in Christ the King Chapel on Louisiana State University Campus.

Mr. Roan gave his daughter in marrige. She was gowned in imported Chantilly lace in rose pattern, empire style, with a raised scalloped neckline embroidered in seed pearls. The long sleeves formed points over her hands. Drifting from the slightly fitted bodice to the hemline was a train of rose point lace and illusion. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion flowed from a double crown of petals and seed pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. John LaBouliere and Miss Jean Buck was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Rebecca McKeithen, Miss Diane Coverdale and Miss Ann Mitchell. Miss Diane Stall, niece of the bridegroom, served as junior bridesmaid.

ATTENDANTS

The feminine bridal attendants were gowned in formal empire models of petal pink chiffon over taffeta. They were designed with accordion pleated sleeves, scooped necklines, and deeper pink belts. Petal pink net and the deeper pink ribbons formed their headpieces, and they carried nosegays of tinted daisies.

Willard Ellender Jr. of Houma was his brother's best man, and serving as groomsmen were Owen Goudelocke, Andre Broussard, Al Marchive and Sterling Marchive. Eddie Legendre, nehew of the bridegroom, was junior groomsman.

Ushers were Jim Roan, brother of the bride, Albert Stall Jr. and Irving Legendre.

Mrs. Roan was wearing for her daughter's wedding a blue Italian silk dress, beaded around its neckline and short sleeves, and a matching blue flower hat. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a greige A-line silk dress and matching flower hat. Both mothers were wearing white orchids.

RECEPTION

At the Mansion reception following the wedding, Mrs. McKeithen greeted guests attired in a summery blue eyelet model.

The bride's table in the dining room held a large bridal bouquet of white summer flowers as the focal decoration. The wedding cake and silver punch bowl graced the table ends. A similar arrangement of white flowers was noted in the state reception room.

Tea girls were Miss Mary Adams, Miss Mandy Massey, Miss Sue Wilson, Mrs. Walter Fox McKeithen, Miss Jeanie Staples, and Miss Etta Toups.

Mrs. Albert Stall Jr., sister of the bridegroom, cut the cake and his sister, Mrs. Irving Legendre Jr., president at the bride's book. Mrs. W. B. Lobdell assisted with the courtesies.

MRS. TIMOTHY ELLENDER

HOUSE PARTY

Forming the house party were Mrs. David Gartman, Mrs. Judson Tingle, Mrs. William Eglin, Mrs. William S. Slack, Mrs. George Daughinais, and Mrs. William B. Miller, aunt of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to San Juan, Puerto Rico, and Antiqua, British West Indies, the couple will be at home in Baton Rouge. In the fall, the bride will be a senior in elementary education at LSU, and Mr. Ellender will enter law school. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority, and her husband, a member of Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

The Roans, former Shreveport residents, and the McKeithens have been close friends for many years. The bride attended school in Columbia and LSU with Miss Rebecca McKeithen and Fox McKeithen.

She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Edna R. Miller of Columbia and Mrs. J. B. Roan of Shreveport.

Dinner Party Honors Couple With August Wedding Plans

A dinner last Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Van Veckhoven on Point Drive, was a prenuptial courtesy for Miss Sandra Mitchell and her fiance, John Christian Eby Jr. Mr. and Mrs. John Luther Kelly co-hosted the social affair with the Van Veckhovens honoring the couple who will exchange wedding vows on August 12 in Shreveport.

Summer flowers were used profusely to enhance the home's decor. On the console in the entrance hall was a tall arrangement of soft coral and yellow roses, yellow snapdragons and yellow foliage in a footed antique bronze container flanked by bronze candelabra.

Guests gathered on the terrace overlooking the bayou. Tall hurricane lamps and flickering candles illuminated the lawn.

At dinner, some of the guests were seated in the formal dining room which overlooked an open court yard featuring a lighted long, low arrangement of petal pink roses, pink snapdragons and double althea in a footed silver container. Tall silver candelabra filled with glowing pink candles were on either side.

The pink flower theme was carried out in the living room. Other guests were seated at quartet tables covered in pale yellow linen and centered with yellow roses, euonymus and yellow candles in the family room.

Miss Mitchell wore a modified tent dress of black and white dotted swiss and black accessories. Mrs. Kelly wore a crocheted knit suit, and Mrs. Van Veckhoven, a yellow linen model.

Tennis players always like pleated skirts, but when the tricot isn't right, the pleats will soon lose their crisply tailored lines. Loomtogs picks a pique-patterned tricot for their long-torso dress with the cool tank top and the box - pleated skirts. Tiny scalloped stitches up and down every pleat help keep them in line.

Hints From Heloise

Spot Shampoo Oily Hair With Plain Old Alcohol

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I run a nursing home.

One of my new guests told me that she read in your column some time back, what to do about a person's hair when it becomes oily across the back of the neck.

Is this true?

R. N.

Yes.

I was told by a state board cosmetologist that the reason the hair along the back of one's neck gets so greasy and oily before the rest of the hair does is that this is the main part of the scalp where the nerve centers and oil glands are.

While the hair along the neck line is still damp from the rubbing alcohol, I roll it up in pin curls immediately. I find that the alcohol will dry much faster than water because it evaporates more quickly.

For those who wear heavy make-up and get oil around their hair line, rubbing alcohol can also be used there too.

Unless your patients are allergic to rubbing alcohol (and I have never known anyone who is) this is a wonderful method.

Remember now.

Do NOT try to give a whole shampoo with rubbing alcohol.

Just dampen the wash rag and rub the oily hair between the folds of the wash rag.

Bless all of your guests and give them my love today.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

A hint worth repeating is the many uses for a child's mop.

I have found it an excellent helper in mopping up spills in the bathroom and is especially good to clean behind the toilet.

Mrs. W. W. Hornbuckel

Dear Heloise:

I'd like to tell you about my new planter.

I scraped and spray-painted the outside of our old round barbecue grill, put gravel in the bottom and filled it with dirt.

Then I put in my house plants and plants from the yard.

So far it has worked real well. I don't have a house full of pots and everything gets watered at once.

It is darling in the yard and can be wheeled around easily.

Millie Thieme

Dear Heloise:

In making berry pies, I use part of the fruit juice as liquid in the crust for dark-colored crust.

Pioneer Mother

Dear Heloise:

I don't bother to gather my nylon net pompons with wire, string, etc.

I accordion pleat it about two inches or so wide, hold it down and stitch through the middle of the strip, sewing all layers flat at one time.

I deliberately don't try to make all the folds neat and even, because the uneven folds give that many more scrubbing edges.

Yours till we run out of new ways of using that wonderful nylon net!

Coffee Duffy

Dear Heloise:

Put a standard coffee measurer in your sugar cannister. They measure exactly two tablespoons and it is easy to multiply this into the amount of sugar you need for a recipe since four tablespoons equal one-fourth cup.

Those little plastic measuring cups with handles are easy to use and keep clean ... and you have a measurer and scoop all in one.

N. C.

Dear Heloise:

Here's a garden hint.

We found an old nylon stocking to be a fine dispenser for sprinkling lime over potato and other plant foliage.

Denise Graham

POTATO IDEA

Reach into the hot oven once and remove all the baked potatoes — it's easy if the potatoes are baked in a muffin pan. The pan is also handy for baking apples and stuffed peppers.

POTATO CAKES

Store leftover mashed potatoes in the refrigerator in a straight-sided glass tumbler. Run a knife around the potato cylinder to remove it and slice nicely-shaped potato cakes.

Dear Abby

Barring Wife From Bar Puts Barbs In Marriage

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 and the mother of three children under 10. My husbands owns a very popular bar - lounge in town. (We live in a suburb.) He comes home anywhere from 3 to 6 in the morning. He gets up about 11 a.m. and goes to work at about 3:30 p.m.

I don't mind his being in the bar business because it's been good to us, but I do resent very much his FORBIDDING me ever to come to his place of business unannounced or uninvited. (By the way, I never have, and I probably never would, so he doesn't have to worry.)

He forbids me to set foot in his place except when HE takes me—which is always on the deadest night of the week.

It's a respectable bar, and caters to women as well as men. This may sound silly to you, but his forbidding me to come by has become such a source of bitterness that I have developed ulcers. It is actually ruining our relationship. Can you tell me what to do? BITTER-HALF

DEAR BETTER HALF: Tell your husband that you have had about as much FORBIDDING as you can stand, and that if he values your marriage he will accompany you to an impartial third party to help resolve your problems. If you have no clergyman to guide you, ask your family physician to recommend a marriage counselor, psychiatrist, or psychologist.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the guard house for going A. W. O. L. I've been here 3 weeks, and I hate to tell you how much longer I've got in here because this is my third A. W. O. L.

My girl friend just sent word to me that she is pregnant. Do you think they would let me out long enough to marry her?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Talk to the chaplain and plead your case. Maybe they'll allow you just enough liberty to marry the girl. But don't expect a honeymoon.

DEAR ABBY: We were given a dog as a gift, and everything is just fine, except for one matter:

After we have dinner, my husband gives the dog his plate to lick clean.

I think this is a disgusting practice, and could be dangerous to our health. My husband says as long as all the dishes go into the automatic dishwasher and are rinsed in boiling water, it doesn't make any difference. What do you think about this?

RED'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Red that if "it doesn't make any difference," you'd just as soon have your own dishes and let the dog have his.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a couple who take your husband out to eat every night, but do not include you?

My husband works with this man, and every evening he and his wife invite my husband out to dinner. They know he's married and they know me very well, yet I am ignored as if I didn't exist. I. O. FORM LA.

DEAR I. O. I don't think much of the couple. But why blame them? Your husband doesn't have to accept unless he wants to.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

JULY 21 IS the date set for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Anne Lingefelt and Benny Ray Morgan. Parents of the betrothed couple are Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lingefelt of Bastrop, and Mr. and Mrs. Lessie Morgan of Holly Ridge. Vows will be repeated in Pleasant Drive Pentecostal Church at 8 p.m., with Rev. A. W. Buie officiating.

Causeway Set To Re-Open

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Operators of the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway said Friday the 24-mile span will be re-opened to traffice sometime tonight.

Malcolm Stein Sr., manager, said an advance notice of from three to four hours will be given news media for the guidance of the public.

Three pilings, two 56-foot sections and one supporting cap are being replaced after a tug pushed barge ploughed into the structure early Tuesday.

Former Priest Returns From Russia With Bride

NEW YORK (AP) — A former Chicago Roman Catholic priest and teacher who went to live in the Soviet Union in protest against U.S. policy in Vietnam returned to the United States with a bride this week.

Harold M. Koch, 35, who spent 3½ months in Russia last year before deciding life under communism was not for him, arrived on a student charter flight July 4 with his bride of three months, the former Jeanette Naeger of New York.

HAROLD M. KOCH
. . . Russia With Love

Koch said he had "not the slightest difficulty" in returning home, although at the time of his Russian trip he was castigated as a "defector" from the West.

And although he no longer wishes to live in Russia, he said the views that took him there are unchanged, and he hopes his experience will add strength to his "voice for peace in the world and an end to the Vietnam war."

"I think it is wrong," Koch said, "that President Johnson generally equates people who are opposed to the war in Vietnam with flag-burners. I think nothing could be farther from the truth, because many of these people suffer for the love of their country through blacklisting and loss of jobs."

Life in Russia is not easy, he said, not only because of the lack of liberty but also because "they lack material goods, and have a callous attitude about supplying material goods."

The worst part of Russian life, he said, is that "at sunset you look to the west and realize you could never travel back to the West. This becomes very difficult, almost unliveable, after a while."

Koch, who was a priest in Chicago from 1958 to 1963, was reported to have quit the priesthood after he was advised to have psychiatric treatment. He said Friday that "at this very time I received a master's degree in education and a teaching and supervisory certificate from the State of Illinois, which means I could be a principal."

In the eyes of the State of Illinois, he added, he must have been considered mentally healthy.

"I feel," Koch added, "that I must begin to clear my name."

Koch said in Russia he was given a comfortable apartment but always had a bodyguard or "friend" — a representative of the Foreign Ministry — when he went out.

"They did not use me for propaganda purposes," he said. "But one of the reasons we had a parting of the ways was the fact that they wanted me to write an article on fascism in America."

Koch said the article he came up with was considered "too weak."

"I told them I couldn't write anything stronger because I didn't believe conditions in America were as bad as they made them."

After that, he said, there were "vaguely veiled threats of one sort or another," but it was finally decided to drop the plan for an article.

Koch said that at that time he was still planning to stay in Russia, but a promised job as a translator and teacher did not come through because of what appeared to be "interminable delays" from red tape.

Finally, he left Russia for personal reasons on Dec. 8 last year, going by train to Helsinki, Finland, and ship to Stockholm, Sweden. In January he went to Paris, where he studied and worked at the American College in an administrative job.

He was married April 18 to Miss Naeger, whom he had known in New York.

Pentagon Wants 25,000 In Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon called Friday for a draft of 25,000 men in September, the second highest monthly manpower order this year.

The September call was a 4,000-man drop from August.

All of the September inductees will go to the Army.

"This request," the Pentagon said, "supports previously planned and announced force levels and will assure a timely flow of replacements for men completing their terms of service."

JENNIE EPSTEIN of Brooklyn, N. Y., keeps writing to her Congressman, Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY) in an effort to enlist his aid in helping find her fiancee, former letter carrier Irving Dulberg. (AP Wirephoto)

The "Columbia," a ship out of Boston, was the first to carry the American flag around the world.

Jennie Hopes To Reach Irving With Love

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm a short, almost plump woman. I wear glasses. I'm not pretty at all.

"He has dark brown hair and beautiful hazel eyes, a straight nose and a beautiful complexion. He's clean and neat and very handsome—a real gentleman.

"But it was magic between us."

Jennie Epstein's voice quavered as she talked about Irving Dulberg, the boyfriend who slipped out of her life four years ago.

She's tried to find him through private investigators, the Social Security office, the Internal Revenue Service, and even her congressman, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

But Irving remains among the missing, and the ache remains within her.

Jennie and Irving both lived in Brooklyn, and each worked at the general post office in Manhattan—he as a letter carrier and she as a postal clerk.

They first cast eyes on one another at 6 a.m. one day when he picked up the mail she had sorted during the night. They never dated, she said, but fell in love chatting over sacks of mail and made plans to get married.

One morning, Jennie just couldn't talk to Irving. She had been studying a new scheme for sorting mail all night and her head ached.

The silence must have hurt Irving, she lamented. "He never gave me a chance to explain. He simply stopped coming to work."

Time passed and Irving was dismissed for "excessive absence." Then he dropped out of sight.

Dr. Peter J. Steincrohn

I overheard him talking to a fellow passenger. As Jimmy Durante says, "everybody wants to get into the act" but discretion overcame my desire to butt in and tell the fellow the facts of life.

He was saying that a friend of his had an attack of coronary thrombosis. Before the seizure he had been one of the boys. He played a lot of golf on weekends. He stayed up late playing poker, smoking strong cigars and drinking his share of the booze.

But since the attack of heart failure, you wouldn't know the fellow, he said. Hardly ever goes out. Doesn't play cards. Has given up smoking and drinks only a highball before dinner. He has actually turned into a sissy. Almost scared to breathe, he said.

It's almost two months now since he got sick, wouldn't you think he would get over the fright? Then he said, "He's suffering from coronary neurosis. I wonder what brings it on."

His companion said, "I dunno," and the talk turned to the international situation.

It's so easy to judge. I would bet anything that the man (probably in his early forties) had never suffered an attack of major illness himself. If he had, he would have been more sumpathetic and understanding.

FACING REALITIES

He would know that when major illness strikes, and you lie there flat on your back, familiar with every speck on the ceiling above, it is unlikely that any human being can pass it all off as only a slight misadventure. When a person is suddenly removed from the mainstream of existence and relegated to some small tributary on which to merely exist for weeks while he gathers strength to recover, he comes face to face with the realities of life.

His philosophy, if he had one, comes in for closer scrutiny and change. I have seen grown men, unafraid to meet the usual exigencies of living, who broke down in unashamed tears, as they lay there days after the immediate pain and danger and fear had disappeared. I have told them to cry themselves dry; that it was normal for human beings (strong men, or otherwise) to react this way.

TWO EXTREMES

I will admit that some react to an attack of coronary thrombosis with too much pessimism and anxiety. They will not return to their jobs, even on the advice of their physicians. They fear to make even a little exertion over ordinary requirements.

They crawl into a safe womb of inactivity to free themselves from the requirements of modern life. I do not approve this type of reaction to an attack; nevertheless, I do not condemn such anxiety - ridden individuals.

However, there is the other kind: the patients who disdain common sense advice on how to regulate their lives. They continue to stay overweight; oversmoke; overdrink; overwork; overworry. They actually go about killing themselves.

Of course, moderation is best: somewhere in between the extremes of actual cowardice and foolhardy challenge of the fates.

I suggest that the man who spoke derisivly of the reactions of his friend to the coronary attack had better knock on wood. He cannot foretell his own reactions to an attack. None of us can.

Dr. Steincrohn is sorry he cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

I.C., GMO Open Talks On Merger

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Illinois Central Railroad and the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio reopened discussions here Friday to expore the possibility of a merger."

The prepared statement added "No definite decisions have been reached. "However, additional conferences are planned."

The IC has been the largest shareholder of the GM&O for some time, the statement said.

About five years ago, July 10, 1962, executives of the two railroads announced that a joint study was under way to determine the feasibility of a merger. They declined further comment at that time.

On Nov. 9 of that year, Dow-Jones News Service quoted Wayne A. Johnston, IC president, that the study was still under way, but that "from what we have seen so far we are very encouraged."

IC has a 6,500-mile rail system in 14 states. The GM&O, linking the South with the Midwest, has 2,700 miles of tracks.

Approval of both railroads' directors and stockholders and the Interstate Commerce Commission would be necessary before a merger could be completed.

Wallace Tests Hoped To End On Weekend

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Doctors attending Alabama Gov. Lurleen Wallace said Friday they hope the diagnostic tests for her recurrent cancer will be completed this weekend.

And when they are finished, the daily medical bulletin said, "a summary of the findings" will be made public.

The statement from Dr. R. Lee Clark, director and chief surgeon at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, said the summary will be given Sunday afternoon if the tests are completed by then.

And, it added, doctors hope at that time to be able also to announce the date the cancer-stricken governor will undergo exploratory surgery.

The next report on Mrs. Wallace's condition will be made by the hospital at 3 p.m. CDT Sunday. There will be no bulletin Saturday.

The report Friday said, as the one had the day before, that the results of the diagnostic tests thus far "have been very favorable."

While the governor underwent continued examinations her husband, former Gov. George C. Wallace, spent most of the day at her bedside as he has since they arrived from Montgomery, Ala., three days ago.

Wallace chatted with well-wishers during lunch at a hotel dining room and, as he left, stopped to talk to two National League baseball umpires he had seen in action in the Chicago-Houston game Thursday night in the Astrodome. Mrs. Wallace also attended the game.

The former governor shook hands with Augie Donatelli and Al Barlick and talked about baseball.

"I've seen you on television a number of times," Wallace remarked.

"We've seen you on television, too," Donatelli retorted.

Wallace, known throughout the nation for his segregationist image, is a likely candidate for president in 1968.

Police Blame Driver Of Bus For Tragedy

BANGKOK (UPI) — Police Friday blamed Thailand's worst railroad tragedy on a bus driver who survivors claimed leaped from the overcrowded vehicle just before it rumbled into the path of an express train.

At least 43 persons died and dozens more were injured in the Thursday afternoon disaster 150 miles northeast of Bangkok and less than a half-mile from the railway station at Korat site of one of the seven U.S. Air Force bases in Thailand.

All the victims were Thais and all were aboard the bus. At least 25 of the dead were women. Many children were among those killed.

Thai officials said there were 86 passengers inside the bus and 10 more on its roof. Only the 10 on top and the driver, who denied the charges that he fled when he saw disaster coming, escaped serious injury.

The driver was later captured and charged with negligent homicide. Police said he denied having jumped out but survivors contradicted his story.

The driver, a father of four who owned the bus which ran between Korat and a village six miles away, claimed an advertising billboard near the tracks blocked his view of the train until it was too late to stop.

Three Judges Refuse Bail To Capt. Levy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army may confine Capt. Howard B. Levy throughout the review and consideration of any appeals of his sentence for disobedience and disloyalty, the U. S. Court of Military Appeals ruled Friday.

The three civilian judges of the highest military tribunal refused to order Levy's release with or without bail.

It was the second such legal reverse for the 30-year-old Brooklyn physician in two days. A U. S. District Court judge in Columbia, S. C., declined Thursday to grant bail or parole to the oficer.

He is under sentence by a court-martial at Ft. Jackson, S. C., to three years in prison and dismissal from the service for refusing to train U. S. Special Forces — Green Beret — medics and for advising servicemen not to serve in Vietnam.

His attorney, Charles Morgan of the Atlanta office of the American Civil Liberties Union, said when the twin petitions were filed they would be appealed to higher courts if denied.

Pending completion of military reviews of the court-martial verdict and sentence, Levy is under guard at the hospital detention building at Ft. Jackson.

Levy's petition was based on the Constitution's First Amendment guarantee of free speech and association, due process provisions of the Fifth Amendment and Eighth Amendment prohibitions against excessive punishment.

The court ruled that neither common law nor the Constitution guarantees the right to bail for a person after conviction and pending appeal and that Congress wrote no bail provisions in the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The military tribunal noted also that Congress specifically excluded courts-martial cases in passing the Bail Reform Act of 1966.

The Chief Justice of the United Sattes receives an annual salary of $40,000.

Mr. Editor... Tell Me, Please

If you have a question you want answered, write or call "Mr Editor, Tell Me, Please" at the Morning World and News-Star. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it on to you each Saturday in this column.

I have heard that coaching experience is necessary for a man to become principal of a school in the Ouachita Parish School System. Is this true?

Supt. Milton Hall said definitely not. He added that a good coach has a better chance to establish leadership reputation and good leadership is one of the best qualities for prospective principals. Some of the coaches which have been in the system, Hall said, did not show leadership ability and have been passed over. There are other qualities to be sought in prospective principals — or other administrators — but leadership is one of the basic requirements.

● ● ●

How was the job of assistant principal at Riser School (West Monroe) filled? Was there a list of applications from all of the teachers?

Supt. Milton Hall said the school board is familiar with all of the personnel of the parish system and, upon the recommendation of the principal of the school and the superintendent, the board approved the present assistant principal in his position.

● ● ●

Who is paying for the 1,600-plate kick-off dinner to be held at the new Monroe Civic Center? Who is being invited?

Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard says the city is paying for the late-August dinner, adding, "Opening a facility of this nature requires promotion and this will be part of the promotion to acquaint the people of the Fifth District and the state with the facilities available at the Civic Center." Due to attend the dinner are "community leaders and elected officials from throughout the Fifth Congressional District," as well as area news media representatives.

● ● ●

If City of Monroe departments, such as the bus department and garbage and sanitation departments operate in the red to render a public service, why is it that the recreation department must close the swimming pools July 15 to save money?

Officials list no plans to close the city pools on July 15, although the facilities were closed the week of July 5 in line with a new economy plan not to operate two days each week rather than one. Beginning next week, the pools will be closed on Mondays and Tuesdays, instead of on Monday only. They were kept open last Tuesday inasmuch as it fell on the July 4th holiday. "The pools are free to the public and rather than place a charge on them, we felt it better to close an extra day each week," said Mayor W. L. Howard. As to the other departments mentioned in the question, he said men have been laid off and schedules trimmed in each.

● ● ●

When will the construction on the downtown park (in Monroe) opposite the hospital begin? Will the city construct a fountain there?

Officials report no plans at the present time as to what will be in the park mentioned, and indicate that no exact date has been set for its development. The area has been reserved, however, for such a center-city park.

● ● ●

What happened to Ben Bella, the former head of Algeria?

He is being held a prisoner by the Algerian government. No disposition on the charges of treason against the people of the country has been made, as far as the outside world knows.

● ● ●

Isn't there a law against dogs and cats being in a place where food is sold. I see signs on some stores, but not on others.

State statutes prohibit animals in the building where food is sold. The parish health unit is charged with enforcing this statute.

● ● ●

What is the address of the Chairman of the Republican Party, Ray Bliss?

Headquarters for the Republican National Committee, of which he is chairman, is 1625 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., 20006.

● ● ●

I am just beginning to work and would like to get more information about social security, retirement benefits and other similar phases. To whom should I write?

The U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Social Security Administration, 2003 Tower Drive, Monroe, could give much information about social security and related fields. In fact, there is a booklet entitled "Social Security Information for Young Families," which will be sent, free of charge, for the asking. This gives information about survivors and disability protection the worker and his family have. Detailed information about retirement plans should be obtained from the company for which a person works.

● ● ●

I am a child of my father by a previous mariage. Since he has remarried, can he make a will leaving everything he owns to his wife and omitting me? What is the law regarding this in both Louisiana and Texas?

As a child you are entitled to a share. But for specific information you should contact an attorney, especially if the estate would include property in both Louisiana and Texas.

● ● ●

Could you please tell me the address of a federal agency which could advise whether certain treatment of salaried employes is unfair or illegal?

The U. S. Department of Labor, Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division, which is located in the Ouachita National Bank Building.

● ● ●

What is the speed limit on North Fourth street? Automobiles apparently are not kept at the limit, if it is under 40 miles an hour.

The speed limit is 25 miles an hour, except in the area of Georgia Tucker School (during school hours) and this is 15 miles an hour.

NEW YORK (AP) - Friday's complete New York Stock Exchange prices:

Stock Mart Ends Week On Note Of Strength

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market Friday ended the week on a note of strength despite continued heavy sell of American Telephone, the most widely held stock. Trading was heavy.

Volume was 11.54 million shares.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 5.03 to 869.05, which still put it in a kind of no man's land between the year's low of 847.77 and the high of 909.63.

Prices rose from the start despite another influx of sell orders which sent American Telephone down 1 to 53¼ on 315,600 shares.

The stock was still reacting to the Federal Communications Commission decision to allow it a rate of return not to exceed 7½ per cent on its interstate service — meaning an annual revenue slash of $120 million.

Selling of AT&T by mutual funds and other institutions as well as by smaller investors was reported and brokerage houses were not eager to recommend it, despite its temptingly low price. In some quarters opinion was that the FCC may have even further things in mind about AT&T.

AT&T was the most active stock for the second straight session. The continued loss to its three million stockholders, the world's largest corporate family, was depressing but not enough to mar seniment as a whole.

Brokers said that normal reinvestment following the half year, hopes for a real summer rally and anticipation of a business upturn later this year were elements of strength.

Of 1,456 issues traded, 785 rose and 446 fell. New highs for the year totaled 142 and new lows 18.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.9 to 327.2 with industrials up 1.4, rails up 2.7 to a new high and utilities up .5 despite the weakness in "Telephone."

Airlines continued strong on their June figures. Rails rallied. Color televisions and savings-and-loans did better.

Thirteen of the 15 most active stocks rose and two fell, Pacific Petroleums, off ¼, being the other loser besides AT&T.

Symington Wayne rose 5⅛ to 39⅝ on 76,900 shares, placing it among the volume leaders. The stock responded to news that Dresser Industries offered to buy up to 400,000 shares of Symington at $40 a share. Dresser rose 1¼ to 39⅜ in less active dealings.

Gulf, Mobile & Ohio rose 4⅛ to 95⅝ and Illinois Central was unchanged at 63⅞. The word was that the two had reopened merger discussions.

International Nickle rose 1¼ to 97. News was that the company had won French Government approval as the minority foreign partner in a new consortium to exploit nickel deposits in New Caledonia.

Among active issues, McDonnel Douglas rose 3½, Eastern Air Lines 4¼, Pan American World Airwways 2, Woolworth 1, Magnavox 1⅜, Great Western Financial 1 and Stokley Van Camp 2⅝.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index advanced .37 to 91.69.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 24 cents to $50.91.

Prices were mostly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 6.16 million shares.

The Exchange's index rose 18 cents to $20.51.

Burma Mines was active and up ⅛ at 7-16. National Video rose 3¼, Scurry Rainbow Oil 2⅞ and Saxon Paper 2⅜.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. Treasury bonds declined.

Futures Up On Chicago Trade Board

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and grain futures prices advanced a cent and a half a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday then lost this margin under liquidation.

Two private crop reports influence the divergent moves.

The Quaker crop summary tended to influence higher prices because it estimated the crops had not responded very well to good growing weather and had been damaged by rain.

The second report, by Conrad Leslie of Lamson Bros. & Co. estimated record corn and wheat production this year and forecast another banner soybeans production.

Prices advanced on the Quaker report and declined on the Leslie report. Both reports are highly respected in the trade.

Commission houses and local traders were active buyers in the soybeans and wheat pits and commercial houses were active buyers of corn. The trade became mixed later on with all facets in active buying and selling.

Soybean oil and soybean meal turned weak at the outset and closed lower.

One of the most active days was chalked up in the choice steer market. Traders said the cash steer market was strong and this stimulated commission house buying on the floor .

At the close wheat was ⅛ lower two cent a bushel higher, July 1.49⅝-⅞; corn was ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, July 1.31⅜-½; oats were ⅜ lower to ⅜ higher, July 71 cents bid; rye was ¼ lower to ½ higher, July 1.21 and soybeans were 1⅛ cents lower to ¼ higher, July 2.83½-⅜.

MISSISSIPPI POULTRY

The Mississippi broiler and fryer market continued to show strength as ready to cook values increased ¾ cents per pound for U.S. grade A and ranged 26.50 to 26.75 cents. Ready to cook demand throughout the period was very good and many plants had to turn down fill in orders because of previously committed business. Live supplies were in close balance at most points and average weights ranged desirable to lighter than desired at many plants due to hot temperatures in the state during the growing period.

HENS

Live offerings of light type hens were generally fully adequate to ample for the slow ready to cook interest. Trading on heavy type hens was limited throughout the period though adequate for an unaggressive demand.

MISSISSIPPI EGGS

Audience Engrossed By Sleeping Beauty

By MARILLYN TAYLOR

Outside was a dull, drippy, dreary Friday afternoon. Inside was Fairyland.

"Sleeping Beauty" opened at Strauss Playhouse, telling the old tale to an engrossed audience of the young and the young at heart. It is indeed the same story, told in a play-with-music enlivened by snatches of modern diaglogue and allusions such as "a rose by another name." A Fairy Godfather, compounded of worldly wisdom and fairy dust, with equal parts of ham, provides a welcome addition to the plot. The production, sponsored jointly by Northeast Louisiana State college and the Little Theater of Monroe, Inc., is directed by George Brian and cast with students from the college.

Friday's opening performance got off to a rather slow start. The actors did not make themselves heard and the audience reacted with restlessness. As the performers adjusted to the size of the auditorium, combined sounds of accompaniment and audience, and limitations of their Gothic costumes, the children responded with breathless attention. By the end of the second act, the young audience was sufficiently enthralled to enter into the action and provide the applause needed for Prince Charming to complete his magic task.

Playing the title role of Beauty is Cookie Young: she of the marveous eyes whose sparkle projects to the back row. She made her entrance, on Princess Beauty's sixteenth birthday, to welcoming "Oh's", and "Ah's", and "There she is!" She was a princess with a "very sweet disposition and a highly developed sense of responsibility" — and she said so herself. The children loved her.

Bill Chandler played the part of Prince Charming. In this play, the hero is brave and daring and strong and handsome and fearless — and no smarter than he has to be. He suffers rather a complex, actually, because all the heroic feats have been accomplished by earlier generations. He is a little reluctant to "live happily ever after", but who could resist Beauty?

Sandy Knobloch is outstanding as the Good Fairy, invited to be Beauty's godmother. Linda Lawrence, as the Bad Fairy, has small children hiding under chairs, and dashing up to meet her after curtain call. Philip Bacilla and Barbara Coates are the properly regal parents of Princess Beauty; Chuck Abbott, the page who narrates the story. Philip Maniscalco is the Fairy Godfather, reluctant to fly, but conscientously doing his duty by Prince Charming.

A special bouquet is due Mona Brooks, who served as assistant to the director, and also designed and made the costumes. Playing on an almost bare stage, with just the suggestion of sets, the actors were attired in outfits straight out of a book of fairy tales.

One young member of the audience was heard to tell a friend who hadn't been there: "There was a princess in the show, and she'll be there tomorrow." And indeed she will, Saturday and Sunday afternoons, 2:30 at Strauss Playhouse.

Caddo Parish Police Jury President Horace Downs agreed with the statement at the conclusion of a day-long look at Ouachita's jail, penal farm and juvenile detention home.

Joining Board, Downs and Ouachita Police Jury President T. W. Humphries for the inspection were George Tidwell, superintendent of the Caddo penal farm, Capt. Ralph Farris, chief security officers for the Caddo Sheriff's Office, and George Scholz, Caddo Sheriff's Department auditor.

The group, which met with Ouachita Sheriff Bailey Grant and Chief Criminal Deputy Frank Kirby, also visited Monroe's new jail.

Loss Of Federal Grants Revealed

The Public Fire Protection Committee of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce, in initiating the organization's 10th Alert action group, learned that the City of Monroe has lost grants in the amount of $2.7 million, due to the lack of area - wide comprehensive planning.

M. Brents Whitty, chairman of the committee, received a special report from city planner George Parsons which revealed that four major projects slated for 1967-68 had been refused federal assistance.

"It is unfortunate that some $5.4 million in public improvement projects, designed to boost the municipal water treatment plant capacity and to effectively allow for a series of distribution mains and reservoirs in Monroe, have struck this major finance roadblock at a time when our Monroe Fire Department is in the midst of seeking to improve the community's insurance class rates." Fire Chief Lee Hales said.

Chamber officials learned that the Departmentof Housing and Urban Development (HUD), in a special communication last week to planning officials, had denied matching funds for the proposed Monroe water facilities projects. Traditionally, federal matching funds on a 50-50 basis has made it possible for municipalities to upgrade and construct water and sewage systems.

"However, it is apparent that a much higher degree of planning will be required, with stronger emphasis on the area - wide level; that is, prior to the acquisition of federal assistance fund." Witty observed.

The Public Fire Protection Committee, in holding its initial briefing session, was oriented on the importance of the City of Monroe expanding its water system. Particular emphasis was placed upon new fire fighting reservoir standby reserves, which it called absolute requirements in the city's bid for a 're-rating' from a Class III to a Class II status. The needs for distribution mains and extensions were termed as absolute musts for the city's growth patterns.

In February, 1966, the citizens of Monroe approved a revenue bond issue providing for a $15.7 million dollar investment to expand the city's water and electrical systems. As plans were developed it became apparent that this money only provided for minimum needs due to the community growth acceleration, the chamber said. Hence, further engineering and planning surveys suggested that the scope of proposed work should be enlarged — particularly in the areas of water service expansion and street lighting, the chamber said.

"After researching available resources, it was found that proposed work on the water system of approximately $5.4 million was eligible for federal matching funds under the basic water and sewer facilities program of the Department of Housing and Urban Development," Parsons said.

Committee officials were informed that an application was then made for grant funds in the amount of $2.7 million to assist the city in carrying out its proposed improvement program. It was pointed out that these funds would have been utilized to provide a more extensive water distribution system, and would have released additional funds for direly needed improvements to the street and public area lighting program.

Chamber committee officials said they view the department's refusal to grant the $2.7 million matching funds, as an indication underscoring an immediate need for full investigation of the discrepancies of planning in the Monroe - West Monroe area.

"We are immediately requesting the Board of Directors of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce to hold a special policy conference on this matter in that it appears that this area will be deprived of countless millions of dollars in matching funds if we do not take steps to realign our planning considerations to the area level," Witty said.

In enumerating particulars on the four major projects that were turned - down by HUD., Parsons released these figures: 12 million gallon water treatment plant, $2,080,000; two 5 million gallon reservoirs, $740,000; distribution mains, $2,420,000; and mains for new sub-divisions, $160,000.

The 24 - man Public Fire Protection Committee formally created a series of six subcommittees to spearhead its "Alert Program".

Committee leader appointed include: Municipality Class, Harry Greenwood; Water Plant and Systems, Roland Brown; Fire Department, Paul F. Stewart; Fire Alarm Systems, Travis Wood; Fire Prevention, J. W. Womack and Training, Ed Freedman.

Others serving on the committee are Harry Snyder, George Fluitt, A. J. Gentry, J. C. Liner, G. W. Hooper, Jack Rubin, Carl E. Mittell, L. D. McElroy, Ray Hughes, Alvin Bodan, A. C. Williams, Gus Antis, Carl Tidwell, Leo Rogers, Jack Morgan, and officio-members George Parsons and Lee Hales.

No Action On Vacant Seat Taken

The Monroe City School Board took no action Friday to fill the seat vacated by board member Billy Hargiss who resigned for business reasons.

Board president William Gannaway said a list of three recommended names would be forwarded to Gov. John McKeithen within "at least the next day or two."

The Louisiana Constitution as amended in 1966 provides that the school board may submit three names from which the governor can choose one for any board vacancy. Prior to that the governor was not limited to his choice for replacement.

Hargiss resigned in June to move to Dumas, Ark.

In other board business handled at a regular meeting Friday, bids were asked for the cooling of 15 frame - building classrooms not covered in bond issue allocations.

Court Drops New York Law On Vagrancy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York's highest court threw out Friday an old state law that permitted arrests on vagrancy charges if it could be shown that a person had no "visible means of support."

The statute, the origins of which can be traced to 1788, long had been used by police to detain suspected criminals when no other charges readily could be proved.

In a 5-2 decision, the Court of Appeals held that the law was not constitutional.

The tribunal acted on an appeal by Charles Fenster, of New York City, who was arrested three times on the vagerancy charge in 1964.

Fenster was acquitted each time, but, after the third occasion, he brought a separate court action, with support for the American Civil Liberties Union, to declare the law unconstitutional.

His attorney argued basically that the statute interfered with personal freedom — the right of a man to conduct himself as he sees fit as long as he does not interfer with others.

The high court's majority sustained that viewpoint in an opinion written by Associate Judge Adrian Burke.

Burke said the law "constitutes an overreaching of the proper limitations of the police power in that it unreasonably makes criminal and provides punishment for conduct — if we can call idleness a conduct — of an individual which in no way hinges on the rights or interests of others."

Egypt Claims Ship Relayed Intelligence

CAIRO (UPI)—Egypt's leading newspaper said Friday that American officials had admitted that Israel got intelligence information from the ill-fated USS Liberty in the Middle East war.

The vessel was attacked off the Sinai Peninsula by Israeli planes and torpedo boats, with a loss of 34 Americans killed and 75 wounded.

The semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said the U.S. government officially told an Arab delegation at the United Nations that the Israelis had monitored broadcasts from the communications ship, as it relayed American reports of Egyptian military activity.

The Americans said the assistance to Israel was unintentional, the newspaper said.

Al Ahram said Arab foreign ministers in New York held an "important" two-hour meeting Thursday to study the "Arab attitude towards the United Nations."

Cairo observers interpreted the report as a hint that the foreign ministers were thinking of an Arab boycott of the United Nations.

Student Government Group Medium Of Exchange Of Ideas

By PAT HERLEVIC
World Staff Writer

In recent decades university and college students have been making the news headlines more and more and it has not always been in a favorable manner. There have been riots and demonstrations. Students have staged sit-ins, stand-ins, love-ins. . . They have burned their draft cards, picketed for peace, spent Easter weekend mob - fashion on the beaches and in general let the world know there is such an individual as a college student.

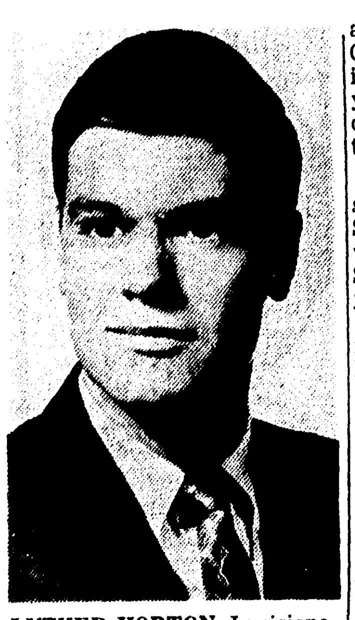
But in the South another side of a college student's individuality is being mirrored in the work of the Southern Universities Student Government Association — SUSGA. In the 130 member schools of this organization, which includes Northeast Louisiana State College and Louisiana Tech, there have never been any major campus uprisings or demonstrations. These schools have always found a medium to which problems could be worked out.

"Fourteen years ago on the Auburn Campus, Auburn, Ala., an idea was conceived to educate college leaders. A group of students feeling that there was a need for a median of exchange of ideas among the various universities and colleges began SUSGA," said H. L. Martin, SUSGA executive secretary, in a speech at Louisiana Tech in February. Since that time this conception has grown and expanded in 10 southeastern states and in 130 colleges and universities.

SUSGA was formed almost five years after the beginning of the National Student Government organization that takes political stands on many controversial subjects.

To educate student leaders in the field of Student Government is the aim of SUSGA. It is non-political and only exists as a link of communication between the colleges and universities in the southeast, enabling the student leaders to exchange ideas and experiences in order to benefit one another in their role of service and leadership to their respective student bodies.

"SUSGA has devoted its time to one of the most unique functions in American higher education; that is, to bring students and faculty together to discuss the problems involved in campus life," said Martin. "It has had as its theme the emphasis of "A concept of mutuality".



LUTHER HORTON, Louisiana Tech student, is the Chairman of the Southern Universities Student Government Association, a student service organization. SUSGA members include 130 colleges in 10 of the southeastern states.

Some of the services offered by the organization include an annual Publications Workshop for the yearbook, newspaper and magazine personnel; an Annual Conference which serves as a common meeting point for student leaders from member schools; a Central Office which assists schools in obtaining information on any phase of student government; an Entertainment Bureau which cooperates with ten national agencies to insure the best entertainment possible for member schools; a Spirit and Sportsmanship Workshop for cheerleaders and spirit committee chairmen; and a Consultant Team to help newly formed student governments as well as the re - organization or re - evaluation of a present system.

The Southern Student leader is published periodically during the year by the organization. It serves as a newsletter and provides information for student leaders.

The organizational structure of SUSGA exists only to coordinate and plan the activities that are carried out as a service to member schools since it exists for service only and does not attempt to supervise or represent its members in any way.

The chairman is the presiding officer at the Annual Conference and coordinates the activities during his term of office. Assisting him is the Executive Council which is made up of a Vice Chairman from each of the ten member states. There is also an Advisory Board.

Louisiana Tech student, Luther Horton, was elected chairman of the organization in April at the 1967 Annual Conference on the University of South Alabama campus, Mobile. All member schools in the ten state area vote on the candidates for the office. Dean of Students at Louisiana Tech, S. X. Lewis, is one this year's new advisors.

Horton's background in Student government goes back to his high school days. His senior year he was president of the Student Council and one of the two delegates from Louisiana to attend the National Student Council Leadership Conference in Estes Park, Colo. It was that year that he was elected president of the Louisiana Association of Student Councils.

At Louisiana Tech Horton has served as both Freshman and Sophomore Class president. He was elected Vice Chairman of SUSGA the end of his freshman year by the member schools in Louisiana and, this, the following year he was elected to the highest position in the organization.

He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James A. Horton of Coushatta.

"This next year we are expanding our services even farther by forming a Junior College SUSGA," said Horton when questioned about his future plans. "Membership will include Junior Colleges throughout the south, and we will try to help them with their specific problems," he added.

Speaking of outgoing Executive Secretary Martin, Horton said, "This man has done a great deal for SUSGA and he has not received any of his salary. He always refused to accept it and put it back in the operating funds to continue the progress of SUSGA."

Martin during his six - year term of office traveled to over four hundred campuses and gave speeches emphasizing the "need for good student government but, more than that, student and faculty uniting together for a common good." He was also coordinator of the Central Office and the organization program.

In perhaps Martin's last official speech on student government as Executive Secretary at the Regional Conference in Charlotte, N. C. he said, "Today comes to the end of something that has been very precious and special to me—the opportunity to be executive secretary of a group of students, not just students, but students who have possessed outstanding abilities. students who have done a lot on their campuses."

At the state conference in February at Louisiana Tech he defined the university. He said it is a part of a larger political entity, that is, the extention of the city street, a part of society with the same rules and regulations that effect society. It is an institution divided into three power blocks, student, faculty administration.

"The American University has drawn its line. It has established its battle fields, and it has established its working ground and on every college campus where I go, people continue to say, 'We students, the faculty, and that Administration'. Student leaders must decide what to do about it."

Continuing Martin pointed out that the university is an extention of the family. "The university becomes the parent of the child, of the student, of the individual," he said.

"Take a place of responsible leadership and have student government play its adult role on the American college campus," was Martin's challenge to SUSGA members in his Charlotte speech. He said, "I feel that too long we have played student government; too long I think it has been like a game students play. It is now time to put away the toys. . .student government has grown up. It is now an adult — a very, very important part of the academic community of the American college and the American resources."

SUSGA student leaders are or should be concerned that the ones they represent aren't cheated out of the education they are entitled to. They are becoming involved in such things as teacher evaluation. Searching for the truth they ask such questions as "Is it learning for teachers to give long boring notes that are transferred from library books and their own graduate school notes into the notebooks of the students or is it the relation of this material to the student that is learning?"

These leaders are discussing the honor system in southern schools, the disciplinary committee, student curriculum committees, pass - fail courses They are working to see that the administrators don't forget who the student is and what he is.

Through the Southern Universities Student Government Association the student leader is learning to be a responsible member of his unique community, the university. He is trying to justly represent his fellow students and by doing so he is setting an example in the South. He is a member of a unique organization that is helping him show the nation that there is another way to solve problems besides riots and demonstrations.

Shaggy Dog Mistaken For Hippie

NORFOLK, Va. AP —F.R. Hall offered this Friday as a genuine shaggy dog story:

With his 80-pound sheepdog Whitey besides him, Hall, a Norfolk merchant, drove across the Hampton Roads Bridge-Tunnel on a trip to Richmond. He didn't notice until he glanced at the toll receipt later that he'd been charged 20 cents extra for Whitey's fare as a passenger.

"Whitey rides like a human," Hall said. "He just sits up on his haunches and looks straight ahead."

E. H. Orange, director of toll facilities for the State Highway Department thought it was a natural mistake.

"Some teen-agers look like sheepdogs," he said.
